Defense Budget Faces New Assaults

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senators critical of the defense budget are planning new assaults on it despite a Pentagon campaign depicting further cuts as dangerous.

Sen. Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., said the Senate no longer will accept as infallible the judgment of the Pentagon or the White House on weapons spending. When the Senate reconvenes one week from today, it will take up once again an amendment to cut $533 million for the giant C5A transport plane from the defense budget.

Action is due later on an amendment sponsored by Case and Sen. Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn., to slice $377 million programmed for work on a nuclear-powered aircraft carrier. Sen. Vance Hartke, D-Ind., is considering an effort to knock out $239 million for the new F14A Navy fighter plane.

Sen. George S. McGovern, D-S.D., is challenging a $90.2 million item for research and development work on a new manned bomber.

And there may be other attempts to trim the $20 billion bill authorizing weapons purchases, research and development spending, and other military outlays.

The overall military budget now stands at some $77 billion.

Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird said Tuesday those demanding further big cuts in that budget "are urging a very dangerous course."

Laird told the American Legion national convention in Atlanta that the defense budget has been trimmed $4.1 billion since the new administration took over.

Arab Nations Slate Unity Meet In Fall

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Hoping to capitalize on Moslem indignation over the fire at the Al Aqsa Mosque in Jerusalem, the Arab nations have agreed to try to convene a summit meeting of all Islamic nations and also to hold a joint Arab defense council in November.

As the Arabs inched toward unity, in words at least, the U.N. Security Council voted another condemnation of Israel, and the Israelis reported finding 13 Arab missiles trained on the heart of Jerusalem.

Foreign ministers and other representatives of the Arab governments ended a two-day meeting in Cairo Tuesday with a communiqué which said Saudi Arabia and Morocco would be asked to line up all the Moslem countries for the Islamic summit. The purpose is to enlist such non-Arab nations as Iran, Pakistan, Malaysia and Indonesia in the fight against Israel.

The ministers said the Arab defense meeting, to be held in Cairo in the first week of November, would "put the necessary plans toward mobilizing Arab military potentials against Israeli aggression and consolidation of the Palestinian revolution."

They agreed that only "force" would liberate the Arab lands occupied by Israel and called for strengthening of the guerrillas in the occupied territories.

Plans for an Arab summit conference to unify action against Israel were postponed until after the November defense meeting.

The Security Council unanimously condemned Israel for an air attack Aug. 11 in which Lebanon claimed four civilians were killed. Israel admitted the attack but said the targets were guerrilla bases in southeast Lebanon from which terrorists had been raiding Israeli border settlements.

Tropic Storm Losing Punch

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A cooling atmosphere softened the fury of tropical storm Eve's wind system today, easing the threat to the middle Atlantic coastline.

Maximum winds early today were estimated at no more than 40 miles an hour, a reduction of 20 m.p.h. during a 12-hour period as the storm maintained a slow drift toward the northeast off North Carolina's coast.

"Conditions do not favor significant intensification," forecaster Neil Frank said at the National Hurricane Center in Miami.

Tricia Still In Hospital

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — Tricia Nixon stayed overnight in Walter Reed Army Hospital in Washington D.C., where doctors are trying to find the cause of abdominal pains.

The Western White House said the President's 23-year-old daughter was "feeling much better." She was resting comfortably after having mild sedation.

Tricia's rush by ambulance from the White House in Washington to Walter Reed Tuesday morning caused a flurry of excitement at the Western White House.

300 GIs Leave Vietnam; Slated Pullout Complete

SAIGON (AP) — Three hundred more men of the U.S. 9th Infantry Division flew from Vietnam to Hawaii today, virtually completing the withdrawal from the war of 25,000 U.S. troops ordered by President Nixon.

The last numerically designated unit to leave under the current cutback program, Marine Corps Fighter Attack Squadron 334, will complete its transfer to Japan Thursday. Redeployment of the squadron's 520 men and 14 F4J Phantom fighter-bombers began Tuesday.

The U.S. Command said a total of 22,700 men have been moved out by units, while another 1,400 Army men, 400 Marines and 350 Navy men left in advance parties or as individuals. Departure of a Navy LST (landing ship tank) with a crew of 150 a week ago completed the total of 25,000 men which Nixon on June 8 said would be pulled out of Vietnam by the end of August.

Despite withdrawal of the 25,000 troops, U.S. forces in Vietnam last Thursday totaled 526,500 men, or only 10,500 less than the 537,000 in the country when Nixon made his announcement.

U.S. spokesmen explained that this was due to a lag between the arrival of normal replacements and the departure for the United States of men relieved after a year's duty in Vietnam. The spokesmen said the total strength would drop to about 515,000 men in the next two weeks.

South Vietnamese headquarters announced that 17 persons were killed and 99 were wounded Tuesday night in two terrorist attacks, one on the central coast and one in Da Nang. Both attacks were blamed on Viet Cong agents, and in both attacks the terrorists escaped.

One terrorist hurled a grenade into a meeting of government pacification workers and villagers near the district town of Phu My, 270 miles northeast of Saigon. Fifteen peasants and two pacification workers were reported killed, and 28 civilians

Ireland Peace Effort Pushed

British Official Seeks Conciliation

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Britain's home secretary, James Callaghan, arrived today to try to conciliate feuding religious factions in Northern Ireland so that "life can return to normal and the troops can be withdrawn."

During his three-day visit Callaghan plans to meet Roman Catholic and Protestant leaders, including the militant Protestant firebrand, the Rev. Ian Paisley.

At Belfast Airport, Callaghan stressed the 50-year-old partition of Ireland will not be an issue in his discussions. The border between the British-ruled and mainly Protestant North and the Catholic Irish Republic to the south will remain as long as the Northern Ireland Parliament and people want it, he said.

Callaghan also said he will not be principally concerned with inquiries into the causes of the recent religious riots in which eight people were killed and hundreds wounded before British troops were called in.

Pilot Sentenced In Model's Death

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — An American helicopter pilot from the Vietnam war has been sentenced to 10 years in prison for killing a Sydney model who fought off his attempt to have sexual intercourse with her.

Lawrence James Hull, 29, of Enfield, Conn., was convicted of manslaughter in Central Criminal Court Tuesday. The jury acquitted him of a charge of murdering Josephine Dunphy, 18.

Hull was on leave from Vietnam when the girl was killed in his motel room on Dec. 16. She had been strangled, then stabbed and the body mutilated with a hunting knife.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dissident Justice Department lawyers have mounted a campaign to get their boss to make a clear statement supporting strong enforcement of public school desegregation.

And if Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell does not meet their demands, some have indicated they may take drastic action, including mass resignations, to dramatize their discontent.

The intra-administration dispute came to light Tuesday night as most of the department's civil rights lawyers met to draft a statement seeking assurances the government will not relax its strong posture on school desegregation.

Sources said the meeting was triggered by the department's action Monday in asking Jackson, Miss., federal court to approve a delay in desegregation of 33 Mississippi School districts.

Police were questioning Lozoncy. They did not disclose the motive for the bombing.

Previously, five Marines had been charged with murder and rioting.

About 30 Negro and Puerto Rican Marines attacked 14 white Marines following a scuffle at a service club.

One white Marine died a week after the fight.

They called a news conference Tuesday to list specific instances of what they termed violations of the two-year-old Freedom of Information Act.

Some violations cited by the group were: the Defense Department's denial of access to the quantity of oil being pumped from Navy ship bilges; the Water Pollution Control Administration classifying domestic military base sewage as a national security matter; and attempts by the Highway Administration to keep automotive safety standard violations from the public while quickly informing manufacturers.

The report said the Labor Department had denied public access to records from 5 to 15 years old on violations of minimum wages and safety standards for certain businesses.

And it listed in an appendix 19 violations of the information act by the Agriculture Department.

Nader criticized the news media for not bringing more court cases to force disclosure under the information act and reporters for not asking "searing, controversial, difficult questions" at some news conferences.

Most agencies, the report said, have a "two-pronged information policy—one toward citizens and one toward the special interest groups that form the agency's regulatory constituency ...

"The lobbyists, the trade associations, and the corporations have made the contacts, have developed the institutions (e.g., industry advisory councils) and have generally compromised or intimidated the agency personnel into affording them entry into the early decisional process prior to public surfacing of rule-making, advanced rule-making, policy speeches and the like."

PLANE OBJECT OF SEARCH IN 4 COUNTIES

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP) — A four-county search was underway today for a single engine plane last seen when it took off from a Mahoning County airstrip Tuesday with fuel for two hours of flight.

Authorities identified the persons aboard the plane as Nick Parish, president of Southern Airways Inc., and student flyer Joseph C. Sudol, both of Youngstown.

Sheriff's deputies said the plane left the airstrip of Southern Airways, a small flying firm, between Boardman and Canfield about 1:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Sheriff's officers from Mahoning, Trumbull, Columbiana and Stark counties searched for the plane Wednesday, aided by the Civil Air Patrol and other flyers.

Russia's Sub Fleet Grows; May Top U.S.

Rickover Links Reds' Buildup To Cuba Crisis

WASHINGTON (AP) — Navy nuclear chief Hyman G. Rickover says the Soviets—determined never again to have to back down as they did during the Cuban missile crisis—rapidly are overtaking the U.S. submarine fleet.

The Soviet Union is likely to have more nuclear submarines than the United States by the end of next year, the vice admiral told a House Appropriations Subcommittee, and they already have 230 more submarines of all types.

He said the Soviets could catch up with the U.S. missile-firing Polaris submarines by 1973 or 1974.

A censored transcript of Rickover's testimony May 20 in support of the Navy's $1.16 billion request for nuclear ship development and procurement was released today by the public works subcommittee.

Rickover linked the rapid Soviet submarine buildup to the 1962 Cuban missile crisis when asked about the danger of the United States being overtaken.

"I would put it this way: I believe that after the Cuban confrontation—which resulted ultimately in Mr. Khrushchev being kicked out of office—they made up their minds that they would never again be faced with a similar situation," Rickover said.

17 Charged In Marine Base Brawl

CAMP LEJEUNE, N.C. (AP) — The Marine Corps has charged 17 Marines and a Navy hospitalman with rioting in connection with a fatal racial fight at Camp Lejeune July 20.

Another nine Marines were restricted to the base on suspicion of rioting, the corps announced Tuesday.

All had shipped out for the Mediterranean shortly after the fight but were returned for questioning. Two other Marines returned at the same time have been released without being charged.

Previously, five Marines had been charged with murder and rioting.

About 30 Negro and Puerto Rican Marines attacked 14 white Marines following a scuffle at a service club.

One white Marine died a week after the fight.

Meteors Light Western Skies

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A swarm of meteors glowing cherry red as they burned up in the atmosphere flashed across California, Nevada and Arizona skies Tuesday night.

"The sky seemed filled with flying sparks," exclaimed a Federal Aviation Administration official in Phoenix.

Other persons said the meteors looked like a burning airplane that was disintegrating in the air.

NEW YORK (AP) — The Metropolitan Opera has postponed its season debut as contract negotiations continue with 11 unions, representing singers, musicians, dancers and other personnel.

Nixon Riot Funds Finance Pools, Garbage Collections

WASHINGTON (AP) — The $9 million President Nixon set aside for riot cleanup is financing projects ranging from portable swimming pools in Akron, Ohio, to boardwalk repairs on Coney Island.

The President announced the program April 8 as a start to rid 20 cities of what Nixon called the "marks of violence and destruction."

"There could be no more searing symbol of governmental inability to act than those rubble-strewn lots and desolate decaying buildings, once a vital part of a community's life and now left to rot," the President said.

But Detroit is using $739,383 of those federal funds for what its officials call a "morale program" aimed at rats and garbage, not riot debris.

And "those rotting, boarded-up structures, barely 30 blocks from the White House" that the President referred to in his statement still stand in Washington.

So far, the capital has only one clean lot and four more being readied to show for the program.

There's little else the cities can do with the $9 million Nixon and the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) made available under HUD's previously ignored interim assistance program.

Congress specified in 1968 that this program's money could only be used in future urban renewal sites for such things as temporary recreational facilities, sprucing-up operations and repairs to public facilities and demolition of structurally unsound buildings.

So Akron is using part of its $234,000 grant for four portable swimming pools as well as for trash cleanups and demonstration projects designed to improve garbage collection.

"There wasn't very much (riot) debris, to be quite honest with you," said James A. Alkire, Akron's director of planning.

And New York City, where major racial disorders broke out in Harlem and Brooklyn in 1964, is pumping $900,000 in interim assistance into a host of projects scattered throughout the city's poverty areas.

Part of the money, about $10,000, will improve the board-

Public In Dark But Not Lobbies

WASHINGTON (AP) — Consumer advocate Ralph Nader charges that numerous federal agencies, while giving preferential treatment to special interest groups, have violated the Freedom of Information Act by withholding information from press and public.

"Government officials at all levels in many of the agencies," Nader said, "have violated systematically and routinely both the purpose and specific provisions of the law."

The charges came in a 20-page report by Nader and a group of about 100 law, engineering and medical students and graduates who have been investigating the workings of several government agencies over the summer.

They called a news conference Tuesday to list specific instances of what they termed violations of the two-year-old Freedom of Information Act.

Some violations cited by the group were: the Defense Department's denial of access to the quantity of oil being pumped from Navy ship bilges; the Water Pollution Control Administration classifying domestic military base sewage as a national security matter; and attempts by the Highway Administration to keep automotive safety standard violations from the public while quickly informing manufacturers.

But an Associated Press survey of participating cities showed that in most, traces of rioting were barely visible when the program was announced.

Crowd Camps Outside Steel Firm Offices

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Led by 12 motorcycles and the city's public safety director, a long column of 1,000 demonstrators wound through Pittsburgh's downtown today and camped outside the corporate headquarters of U.S. Steel Corp.

The marchers walked around the huge skyscraper in pairs, clapping their hands and chanting: "Close it down! Close it down!" At one point, they changed their chant to "Blow it up! Blow it up! Blow it up!"

They were referring to the 65-story building U.S. Steel is constructing only two blocks from its present headquarters.

Byrd Brown, a march leader, said the marchers want to meet them to halt construction of the skyscraper.

There was no immediate comment from U.S. Steel on Brown's demand.

The demonstrators, pressing for the third straight day their demands for more Negro membership in craft unions, were led across the Manchester Bridge by Safety Director James A. Cortese.

"I'm hoping my presence will help cool the situation," he said. March leaders said they

Rickover Links Reds' Buildup To Cuba Crisis

WASHINGTON (AP) — Navy nuclear chief Hyman G. Rickover says the Soviets determined never again to have to back down as they did during the Cuban missile crisis—rapidly are overtaking the U.S. submarine fleet.

The Soviet Union is likely to have more nuclear submarines than the United States by the end of next year, the vice admiral told a House Appropriations Subcommittee, and they already have 230 more submarines of all types.

He said the Soviets could catch up with the U.S. missile-firing Polaris submarines by 1973 or 1974.

A censored transcript of Rickover's testimony May 20 in support of the Navy's $1.16 billion request for nuclear ship development and procurement was released today by the public works subcommittee.

Rickover linked the rapid Soviet submarine buildup to the 1962 Cuban missile crisis when asked about the danger of the United States being overtaken.

"I would put it this way: I believe that after the Cuban confrontation—which resulted ultimately in Mr. Khrushchev being kicked out of office—they made up their minds that they would never again be faced with a similar situation," Rickover said.

17 Charged In Marine Base Brawl

CAMP LEJEUNE, N.C. (AP) — The Marine Corps has charged 17 Marines and a Navy hospitalman with rioting in connection with a fatal racial fight at Camp Lejeune July 20.

Another nine Marines were restricted to the base on suspicion of rioting, the corps announced Tuesday.

All had shipped out for the Mediterranean shortly after the fight but were returned for questioning. Two other Marines returned at the same time have been released without being charged.

Previously, five Marines had been charged with murder and rioting.

About 30 Negro and Puerto Rican Marines attacked 14 white Marines following a squabble at a service club.

One white Marine died a week after the fight.

Meteors Light Western Skies

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A swarm of meteors glowing cherry red as they burned up in the atmosphere flashed across California, Nevada and Arizona skies Tuesday night.

"The sky seemed filled with flying sparks," exclaimed a Federal Aviation Administration official in Phoenix.

Other persons said the meteors looked like a burning airplane that was disintegrating in the air.

Public In Dark But Not Lobbies

WASHINGTON (AP) — Consumer advocate Ralph Nader charges that numerous federal agencies, while giving preferential treatment to special interest groups, have violated the Freedom of Information Act by withholding information from press and public.

"Government officials at all levels in many of the agencies," Nader said, "have violated systematically and routinely both the purpose and specific provisions of the law."

The charges came in a 20-page report by Nader and a group of about 100 law, engineering and medical students and graduates who have been investigating the workings of several government agencies over the summer.

They called a news conference Tuesday to list specific instances of what they termed violations of the two-year-old Freedom of Information Act.

Some violations cited by the group were: the Defense Department's denial of access to the quantity of oil being pumped from Navy ship bilges; the Water Pollution Control Administration classifying domestic military base sewage as a national security matter; and attempts by the Highway Administration to keep automotive safety standard violations from the public while quickly informing manufacturers.

The report said the Labor Department had denied public access to records from 5 to 15 years old on violations of minimum wages and safety standards for certain businesses.

And it listed in an appendix 19 violations of the information act by the Agriculture Department.

Crowd Camps Outside Steel Firm Offices

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Led by 12 motorcycles and the city's public safety director, a long column of 1,000 demonstrators wound through Pittsburgh's downtown today and camped outside the corporate headquarters of U.S. Steel Corp.

The marchers walked around the huge skyscraper in pairs, clapping their hands and chanting: "Close it down! Close it down!" At one point, they changed their chant to: "Blow it up! Blow it up! Blow it up!"

They were referring to the 65-story building U.S. Steel is constructing only two blocks from its present headquarters.

Byrd Brown, a march leader, said the marchers want to meet them to halt construction of the skyscraper.

There was no immediate comment from U.S. Steel on Brown's demand.

The demonstrators, pressing for the third straight day their demands for more Negro membership in craft unions, were led across the Manchester Bridge by Safety Director James A. Cortese.

"I'm hoping my presence will help cool the situation," he said. March leaders said they (Continued on Page 2)

Five Ohioans Die On Roads

Chardon Records Double Fatality

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A double fatality traffic crash was recorded in northern Ohio Tuesday night, one of a series of accidents which have taken the lives of at least five Ohioans in the past 24 hours.

The dead: CHARDON—Robert Winfield, 40, and his daughter Pamela, 18, of Chardon, were killed Tuesday night in a two-car collision on Mentor Road eight miles northeast of Chardon. Six persons were injured in the crash.

PORT CLINTON — Carol Lynn Womack, 16, of Curdick, was killed Tuesday when the car in which she was riding went out of control and crashed into a pole along a rural Ottawa County road.

BATAVIA — Gary Clark, 5-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Clark of Williamsburg, was killed Tuesday night when struck by an automobile in front of his Clermont County home.

HAMILTON — Mrs. Judy C. Hopkins, 21, of Hamilton, was injured fatally Tuesday night in an automobile collision at a Hamilton street intersection. A son, Danny Ray, 4, was hurt seriously.

DAYTON — Kenneth Alspaugh, 27, of Harrison Township near Dayton was killed Tuesday night in a one-car accident on Riverside Drive in Dayton.

Plane Object Of Search In 4 Counties

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP) — A four-county search was underway today for a single engine plane last seen when it took off from a Mahoning County airstrip Tuesday with fuel for two hours of flight.

Authorities identified the persons aboard the plane as Nick Parish, president of Southern Airways Inc., and student flyer Joseph C. Sudol, both of Youngstown.

Sheriff's deputies said the plane left the airstrip of Southern Airways, a small flying firm, between Boardman and Canfield about 1:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Sheriff's officers from Mahoning, Trumbull, Columbiana and Stark counties searched for the plane Wednesday, aided by the Civil Air Patrol and other flyers.

Nixon Riot Funds Finance Pools, Garbage Collections

WASHINGTON (AP) — The $9 million President Nixon set aside for riot cleanup is financing projects ranging from portable swimming pools in Akron, Ohio, to boardwalk repairs on Coney Island.

The President announced the program April 8 as a start to rid 20 cities of what Nixon called the "marks of violence and destruction."

"There could be no more searing symbol of governmental inability to act than those rubble-strewn lots and desolate decaying buildings, once a vital part of a community's life and now left to rot," the President said.

But Detroit is using $739,383 of those federal funds for what its officials call a "morale program" aimed at rats and garbage, not riot debris.

And "those rotting, boarded-up structures, barely 30 blocks from the White House" that the President referred to in his statement still stand in Washington.

So far, the capital has only one clean lot and four more being readied to show for the program.

There's little else the cities can do with the $9 million Nixon and the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) made available under HUD's previously ignored interim assistance program.

Congress specified in 1968 that this program's money could only be used in future urban renewal sites for such things as temporary recreational facilities, sprucing-up operations and repairs to public facilities and demolition of structurally unsound buildings.

So Akron is using part of its $34,000 grant for four portable swimming pools as well as for trash cleanups and demonstration projects designed to improve garbage collection.

"There wasn't very much (riot) debris, to be quite honest with you," said James A. Akire, Akron's director of planning.

And New York City, where major racial disorders broke out in Harlem and Brooklyn in 1964, is pumping $900,000 in interim assistance into a host of projects scattered throughout the city's poverty areas.

Part of the money, about $10,000, will improve the boardwalk in Coney Island—a section of the city best known for its boardwalk amusement area but also troubled by poverty in its Negro and Puerto Rican slums.

Youths battled police in a flareup on Coney Island last summer.

Lawrence Cox, an assistant secretary at HUD, said when he learned of the Coney Island project: "I'm surprised, but I don't know why I should be."

HUD never required, Cox said, that "every dime of interim assistance go into riot areas. But the programs and the emphasis in interim assistance have been on riot-affected areas."

"This is interim assistance," said Richard R. Torchia, Model Cities director in Providence, R.I. "Forget the riot damage nonsense. That's a publicity grab."

Nixon said on April 8: "The program I announce today is a start, a beginning, to bring aid to the victims of these riots, the vast majority who fought or fled the burning and now must live among its remains."

But an Associated Press survey of participating cities showed that in most, traces of rioting were barely visible when the program was announced.

URGENTLY NEEDED — Pickaway County is about $13,000 short of an airport and an overall increase of the area's economy. Every dollar counts from now on, an Airport Authority spokesman said. Nearly $37,000 has been donated so far and a couple of industries have yet to contribute, but the need is so great "we are appealing to the general public for contributions," the spokesman said. The tax-deductible donations will be returned if the goal is not reached by the Sept. 5th deadline when a second option expires on the 50-acre site south of Circleville. A grant of $100,000 for construction, plus another $50,000 grant from the state, hinges on the local responsibility of providing land for the airport.

Jury Verdict For Teacher Reversed By Appeals Court

A Pickaway County Common Pleas Court verdict in favor of a Westfall school teacher has been reversed in an opinion filed Wednesday by the Fourth District Court of Appeals.

Mary Jane Funk, 947 Circle Drive, was granted a $4,400 judgement as a full year's teaching salary by a jury here when a squabble ensued over her teaching credentials and the board's refusal to honor her contract.

The Westfall Board of Education, not satisfied with the county court verdict, appealed the decision on a question of law.

In its opinion, filed with the Clerk of Courts office, the Appeals Court stated the county court erred in not directing a verdict in favor of the Board of Education at the close of the plaintiff's case.

Mrs. Funk held provisional and temporary certificates to teach from the Ohio Department of Education. A temporary certificate to teach English and speech was subject to renewal upon the completion of nine semester hours of training in the area of deficiency.

She was unable to complete the training within the specified time due to an illness, therefore the board refused to honor her teaching contract.

The opinion was signed by Presiding Judge Gordon Gray of Athens County.

Harness Racing On Fair's Menu

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Nehru, Lightning Wave, Weavover and Shadow Rocket had star billing today at the Ohio State Fair.

They were in a field of 27 top 3-year-old pacers assembled for the Director of Agriculture feature on the harness racing oval.

Winners of three heats go against each other in a fourth heat, slated for the seventh race on the day's nine-race card.

Featured in the free grandstand shows today was popular country singing star Johnny Cash.

On Tuesday, each grandstand show by Eddy Arnold and Roy Clark, also country singers attracted standing-room-only crowds of more than 25,000.

Fair officials said 125,203 people passed through the gates Tuesday, raising total fair attendance at the halfway point to a record 1,006,503.

At that rate, if favorable weather conditions continue, attendance should top two million, the goal set by Gov. James A. Rhodes.

Activities Tuesday included the junior and senior sheep blocking and trimming contest, commercial cattle sale and a variety of events for senior citizens.

Gary Dingman, 18, of Bradford in Darke County took the top prize in the senior division of the sheep competition, while Don Saylor, 15, of Belle Center in Logan County captured the junior title.

A total of 423 head, weighing 403,345 pounds, sold for $129,454 at the commercial cattle sale. The 5,640-pound grand champion pen of steers, owned by Mike Thiergartner of Milford Center in Union County, brought $45.75 per hundred-weight.

As many as 2,500 persons jammed the Senior Citizens Center during Tuesday activities, which included the presentation of prominent senior citizens and other awards and selection of waltz and cookie bake-off contest winners.

Officer Loses His Command After Mutiny On Battlefield

SAIGON (AP) — The young American lieutenant who couldn't get his men back into battle last Sunday has been relieved of his command.

His battalion commander, Lt. Col. Robert C. Bacon of Falls Church, Va., said today that Lt. Eugene Shurtz Jr., 26, of Davenport, Iowa, had been relieved as commander of Alpha Company and would be given a new assignment with the 199th Light Infantry Brigade.

"I went out to relieve him personally," Bacon said in a telephone interview from his headquarters in the foothills southwest of Da Nang. "I wasn't satisfied with the progress the company was making."

Alpha Company suffered heavy casualties last week in five consecutive days of assaults on a labyrinth of North Vietnamese bunkers and trench lines on the slopes of Nui Lon Mountain. Ordered to move out again Sunday, Shurtz told Bacon over a field telephone: "I am sorry, sir, but my men refuse to go. We cannot move out."

Bacon sent his executive officer, Maj. Richard Waite of Reynoldsville, Pa., and Sgt. Okey Blankenship of Panther, W.Va., a Vietnam veteran, to the scene. Blankenship finally persuaded the men to get moving. They ran into no opposition.

Bacon said that Capt. Bernard F. Wolpers, a native of Germany who is now a U.S. citizen, had replaced Shurtz as company commander.

The colonel said the company's refusal to follow Shurtz's orders "was certainly a contributing factor" in his decision to change commanders, but that the action "was not solely based on that."

There has been hard fighting almost daily in this region since Aug. 17, with at least 650 enemy soldiers and more than 60 Americans reported killed.

BANGKOK (AP) — The first American troops to be withdrawn from Thailand will probably come from the 12,000-man Army support group, authoritative sources said today.

The sources said it was unlikely that any of the 36,000 U.S. Air Force personnel stationed at six large bases in Thailand would be withdrawn as long as the Vietnam war continues and the Communists gain ground in Laos.

The sources said it was also "most unlikely" that any of the 1,000 U.S. advisers working with the Thai armed forces would be withdrawn.

The cordilleras, or ranges, that comprise the Andes, reach heights of 18,000 to nearly 23,000 feet, and in Bolivia stretch 400 miles wide.

The march today was peaceful and orderly.

Brown and other civil rights leaders were in the forefront of marches that caused a massive traffic jam in the downtown during the morning rush-hour traffic Monday and erupted in violence Tuesday. They vowed to continue the marches until their demands were met.

"We're going to come back day after day until we get what we want," said Michael Dismond, a leader of the Black Construction Coalition protesting the low percentage of Negroes among the city's 30,000 trade union members.

"We're not going to tire in our efforts," said Dismond, shaking his fist. "We're angry now. What started as a peaceful demonstration has been turned into a nightmare of violence by police."

For eight hours Monday, 1,000 singing, hand-clapping demonstrators weaved through the city and unhindered by police succeeded in closing 10 major construction projects involving an estimated $200 million.

Situation Eases At Cleveland Hopkins Airport

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Air traffic control equipment at Cleveland Hopkins International Airport kept relatively cool and functioned well Tuesday. It was feared earlier that air conditioning breakdowns would cause failure of the equipment and force closure of the airport.

Cooler temperatures kept the strain off the airport's already overburdened air conditioning, but also helpful was a portable cooling unit loaned to the Federal Aviation Administration by United Air Lines.

The unit helped cool the instrument flight control room and radar room where performance of equipment is impaired by high temperatures.

Low water pressure has caused breakdowns of air conditioning needed to keep sensitive flight control equipment functioning.

North Koreans Still Mum On Missing Airmen

PANMUNJOM, Korea (AP) — North Korea again refused today to tell the United States what happened to the three men aboard a U.S. Army helicopter shot down Aug. 17 north of the demilitarized zone in Communist territory.

During another meeting of the Korean Military Armistice Commission, the Communists again accused the U.N. Command of sending the craft over North Korean territory. The United States said the pilot of the OH23 helicopter strayed after becoming disoriented during a training mission.

It is not known whether the three Army men aboard survived the crash.

Nixons, Johnsons Visit Redwoods

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — The Richard M. Nixons and the Lyndon B. Johnsons get together today for a birthday celebration and a sentimental journey into the California redwood forests.

The President gave the gathering an official purpose: To dedicate a Lady Bird Johnson grove in the Redwood National Park with a plaque hailing the former first lady's "devoted service to the cause of preserving and enhancing America's natural beauty for the enjoyment of all the people."

There also was a personal purpose: To celebrate Johnson's 61st birthday with an informal luncheon featuring a three-layer birthday cake with yellow roses and bluebonnets on it.

On Oct. 2, 1968, Johnson signed the law that established the park. Mrs. Johnson stood beneath a 234-foot, 675-year old redwood to dedicate it Nov. 25, 1968. It was her farewell trip as first lady.

Interior Secretary Walter J. Hickel was named master of ceremonies for the dedication in the 58,000-acre Redwood National Park, 670 miles north of San Clemente.

The Rev. Billy Graham, friend of the Nixons and Johnsons, was on hand to deliver a prayer and California Gov. Ronald Reagan arranged to join the group.

URGENTLY NEEDED — Pickaway County is about $13,000 short of an airport and an overall increase of the area's economy. Every dollar counts from now on, an Airport Authority spokesman said. Nearly $37,000 has been donated so far and a couple of industries have yet to contribute, but the need is so great "we are appealing to the general public for contributions," the spokesman said. The tax-deductible donations will be returned if the goal is not reached by the Sept. 5th deadline when a second option expires on the 50-acre site south of Circleville. A grant of $100,000 for construction, plus another $50,000 grant from the state, hinges on the local responsibility of providing land for the airport.

Jury Verdict For Teacher Reversed By Appeals Court

A Pickaway County Common Pleas Court verdict in favor of a Westfall school teacher has been reversed in an opinion filed Wednesday by the Fourth District Court of Appeals.

Mary Jane Funk, 947 Circle Drive, was granted a $4,400 judgement as a full year's teaching salary by a jury here when a squabble ensued over her teaching credentials and the board's refusal to honor her contract.

The Westfall Board of Education, not satisfied with the county court verdict, appealed the decision on a question of law.

In its opinion, filed with the Clerk of Courts office, the Appeals Court stated the county court erred in not directing a verdict in favor of the Board of Education at the close of the plaintiff's case.

Mrs. Funk held provisional and temporary certificates to teach from the Ohio Department of Education. A temporary certificate to teach English and speech was subject to renewal upon the completion of nine semester hours of training in the area of deficiency.

She was unable to complete the training within the specified time due to an illness, therefore the board refused to honor her teaching contract.

The opinion was signed by Presiding Judge Gordon Gray of Athens County.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Candidate recruiting, fund raising, polling, public relations and vote analysis procedures will be discussed by top staff members of Republican state committees in a conference in Chicago next month.

GOP National Chairman Rogers C. B. Morton announced plans for the sessions to be held Sept. 18-20, sponsored by the Republican National Committee.

About 100 professional staff members will hear speeches by Harry S. Dent, special counsel to the President; Illinois Gov. Richard B. Ogilvie, and national committee executives.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pan American World Airways will be first in service with the jumbo Boeing 747 with an inaugural flight to Europe Dec. 15.

The airline said Tuesday the 747, with a 362-passenger capacity, will make daily round trips between New York, London and Frankfurt.

Service to Paris starts Dec. 18, and a second schedule to London begins Dec. 22. Pan American plans 747 service between San Francisco and Honolulu starting Jan. 6 and between Los Angeles and Honolulu Jan. 11. Daily service to Tokyo will begin Feb. 6, and March 12 to Hong Kong and Bangkok.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A medical specialist on aging urges health professionals and families to stop engaging in what he calls a mutual pretense of avoiding talk about death when standing at the bedside of the dying elderly.

Dr. Anselm Strauss of the University of California's San Francisco Medical Center, also said health professionals should become better trained in the behavioral sciences so they could give better psychological and social care to old folks about to die.

"If I were asked what is the main problem presented by the dying of the elderly—including themselves—I would say unhesitatingly that the greatest problem is their psychological and social care," Strauss told the eighth International Congress on Gerontology Tuesday.

Stocks Reach Higher Level

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market reversed an early downdrift and worked its way into higher ground in quiet trading early this afternoon, with brokers reporting selective buying giving it some lift.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 3.37 at 826.89. The DJI had been off 1.19 at 10:30 a.m.

Advances led declines by better than 100 issues.

"The market went down pretty sharply earlier this week," an analyst said, "and this apparently drew in some buying interest. Some of the issues which slid apparently fell to price levels that some traders found attractive."

The quiet trading pace, they said, indicated that many investors were remaining out of the action while waiting for the market to take a solid direction. The Associated Press 60-stock average at noon was up 7.7 at 232.0, with industrials up 1.9, rails unchanged, and utilities unchanged.

Harness Racing On Fair's Menu

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Nehru, Lightning Wave, Weather and Shadow Rocket had star billing today at the Ohio State Fair.

They were in a field of 27 top 3-year-old pacers assembled for the Director of Agriculture feature on the harness racing oval.

Winners of three heats go against each other in a fourth heat, slated for the seventh race on the day's nine-race card.

Featured in the free grandstand shows today was popular country singing star Johnny Cash.

On Tuesday, each grandstand show by Eddy Arnold and Roy Clark, also country singers attracted standing-room-only crowds of more than 25,000.

Fair officials said 125,203 people passed through the gates Tuesday, raising total fair attendance at the halfway point to a record 1,066,503.

At that rate, if favorable weather conditions continue, attendance should top two million, the goal set by Gov. James A. Rhodes.

Activities Tuesday included the junior and senior sheep blocking and trimming contest, commercial cattle sale and a variety of events for senior citizens.

Gary Dingman, 18, of Bradford in Darke County took the top prize in the senior division of the sheep competition, while Don Saylor, 15, of Belle Center in Logan County captured the junior title.

A total of 423 head, weighing 403,345 pounds, sold for $129,454 at the commercial cattle sale. The 5,640-pound grand champion pen of steers, owned by Mike Thiergartner of Milford Center in Union County, brought $45.75 per hundred-weight.

As many as 2,500 persons jammed the Senior Citizens Center during Tuesday activities, which included the presentation of prominent senior citizens and other awards and selection of waltz and cookie bake-off contest winners.

SISTER FIRED—Involved in a dispute over her demand for improvements at the Children's Emergency Shelter in Jersey City, N.J., Sister Carmella Marie has been dismissed from her $7,500-a-year-post by Thomas Baker, administrative aide to Mayor Thomas J. Whelan.

Officer Loses His Command After Mutiny On Battlefield

SAIGON (AP) — The young American lieutenant who couldn't get his men back into battle last Sunday has been relieved of his command.

His battalion commander, Lt. Col. Robert C. Bacon of Falls Church, Va., said today that Lt. Eugene Shurtz Jr., 26, of Davenport, Iowa, had been relieved as commander of Alpha Company and would be given a new assignment with the 196th Light Infantry Brigade.

"I went out to relieve him personally," Bacon said in a telephone interview from his headquarters in the foothills southwest of Da Nang. "I wasn't satisfied with the progress the company was making."

Alpha Company suffered heavy casualties last week in five consecutive days of assaults on a labyrinth of North Vietnamese bunkers and trench lines on the slopes of Nui Lon Mountain. Ordered to move out again Sunday, Shurtz told Bacon over a field telephone: "I am sorry, sir, but my men refuse to go. We cannot move out."

Bacon sent his executive officer, Maj. Richard Waite of Reynoldsville, Pa., and Sgt. Okey Blankenship of Panther, W.Va., a Vietnam veteran, to the scene. Blankenship finally persuaded the men to get moving. They ran into no opposition.

Bacon said that Capt. Bernard F. Wolpers, a native of Germany who is now a U.S. citizen, had replaced Shurtz as company commander.

The colonel said the company's refusal to follow Shurtz's orders "was certainly a contributing factor" in his decision to change commanders, but that the action "was not solely based on that."

The sources said it was also "most unlikely" that any of the 1,000 U.S. advisers working with the Thai armed forces would be withdrawn.

BANGKOK (AP) — The first American troops to be withdrawn from Thailand will probably come from the 12,000-man Army support group, authoritative sources said today.

The sources said it was unlikely that any of the 36,000 U.S. Air Force personnel stationed at six large bases in Thailand would be withdrawn as long as the Vietnam war continues and the Communists gain ground in Laos.

The sources said it was also "most unlikely" that any of the 1,000 U.S. advisers working with the Thai armed forces would be withdrawn.

The cordilleras, or ranges, that comprise the Andes, reach heights of 18,000 to nearly 23,000 feet, and in Bolivia stretch 400 miles wide.

Crowd Camps

The march today was peaceful and orderly.

Brown and other civil rights leaders were in the forefront of marches that caused a massive traffic jam in the downtown during the morning rush-hour traffic Monday and erupted in violence Tuesday. They vowed to continue the marches until their demands were met.

"We're going to come back day after day until we get what we want," said Michael Dismond, a leader of the Black Construction Coalition protesting the low percentage of Negroes among the city's 30,000 trade union members.

"We're not going to tire in our efforts," said Dismond, shaking his fist. "We're angry now. What started as a peaceful demonstration has been turned into a nightmare of violence by police."

For eight hours Monday, 1,000 singing, hand-clapping demonstrators weaved through the city and unhindered by police succeeded in closing 10 major construction projects involving an estimated $200 million.

Situation Eases At Cleveland Hopkins Airport

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Air traffic control equipment at Cleveland Hopkins International Airport kept relatively cool and functioned well Tuesday. It was feared earlier that air conditioning breakdowns would cause failure of the equipment and force closure of the airport.

Cooler temperatures kept the strain off the airport's already overburdened air conditioning, but also helpful was a portable cooling unit loaned to the Federal Aviation Administration by United Air Lines.

The unit helped cool the instrument flight control room and radar room where performance of equipment is impaired by high temperatures.

Low water pressure has caused breakdowns of air conditioning needed to keep sensitive flight control equipment functioning.

CITY Police, in an accident report filed Tuesday, have charged that Jeff Johnson, 152 Pontious Lane, was in violation of two traffic laws — reckless operation and driving when he had no license. But he has not been cited to appear in court.

The reason ... Jeff is just two years old ... It seems Jeff was playing near his home at about 6:30 yesterday ... He crawled into his father's car, (Henry Johnson), put the gearshift lever into neutral, and the car rolled across Pontious Lane ... According to the police report, it attained a speed estimated at 30 miles per hour before it was brought to a sudden halt by a house owned by T. J. Conley ... Damage to the house was estimated at $25 ... The car sustained moderate front end damage ... Jeff suffered some bumps and bruises during his ride.

NUMEROUS out-of-state cars are a common sight in Roundtown with the annual Mount of Praise Camp Meeting in progress ... Visitors however are not confined to the continental U.S.A. ... A party from Dominica in the British West Indies is currently in attendance ... Approximately 3,000 persons attended tabernacle services Tuesday night and youth services for the 13-25 age group attracted 150 Wednesday morning ... Rev. Morton Dorsey is the scheduled Wednesday evening preacher.

Three welfare rights leaders were arrested after one of them interrupted the business meeting with a plea for more food for what he said was the county's hungry.

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—Montgomery County Commissioners were asked Tuesday to declare the county a disaster area and seek federal aid for its hungry people.

The request was made by Dr. Dwight Pemberton, a Dayton dentist, shortly after a welfare demonstration disrupted the meeting and resulted in three arrests.

Nixons, Johnsons Visit Redwoods

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — The Richard M. Nixons and the Lyndon B. Johnsons get together today for a birthday celebration and a sentimental journey into the California redwood forests.

The President gave the gathering an official purpose: To dedicate a Lady Bird Johnson grove in the Redwood National Park with a plaque honoring the former first lady's "devoted service to the cause of preserving and enhancing America's natural beauty for the enjoyment of all the people."

There also was a personal purpose: To celebrate Johnson's 61st birthday with an informal luncheon featuring a three-layer birthday cake with yellow roses and bluebonnets on it.

On Oct. 2, 1968, Johnson signed the law that established the park. Mrs. Johnson stood beneath a 234-foot, 675-year old redwood to dedicate it Nov. 25, 1968. It was her farewell trip as first lady.

Interior Secretary Walter J. Hickel was named master of ceremonies for the dedication in the 58,000-acre Redwood National Park, 670 miles north of San Clemente.

The Rev. Billy Graham, friend of the Nixons and Johnsons, was on hand to deliver a prayer and California Gov. Ronald Reagan arranged to join the group.

According To Boyle

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — One of life's little ordeals is trying to raise a teen-ager today. Particularly if it's one in miniskirts.

Anyone who does the job successfully certainly deserves applause from a grateful neighborhood and medals from an indebted government.

Bringing up children in the old days didn't take too much trouble. They were seen and not heard; if you told them to do something they did it—or so the legend now runs — and by the time they were 12 or so they started doing outside jobs and bringing fresh money into the family.

The shoe is on the other foot now. Parents are supposed to be seen—when needed—and not heard. They are supposed to do what they are told, and it costs so much to raise kids today that Pop often has to resort to moonlighting in order to meet the bills.

We are told much of "the generation gap" and that we must try to bridge it. How? A grown-up can't bridge it alone, and the younger generation don't want it bridged. They like that gap. They feel it keeps adults in their place.

Have you tried to talk to a teen-ager recently? It isn't easy. In training a mule, the theory is that you first strike it between the eyes with a 2 by 4 plank to be sure you have its attention.

You are not allowed to do this with teen-agers. The only sure way to get the attention of a teen-ager is to dangle a $10 bill in front of its eyes, then, speaking real fast, try to get your message across before it can grab the money and flee.

Teen-agers are extremely uncommunicative in the presence of their elders. I am trying to bring up one, Tracy Ann, recently turned 16, and have discovered she has two vocabularies.

She can speak for loquacious hours in the one she uses over the phone with those her own age. But the one she employs with me consists largely of two words—nope and yep.

"Don't you want anything at all to eat for breakfast?"

"Nope."

"Do you plan to feed the cat sometime today?"

"Yep."

The other day, packing the laundry bag, she said a bit sulkily, "For Pete's sake, do I have to do everything around this house?"

"Congratulations, honey," I told her.

"Why?"

"Because that's the first time in weeks I've heard you use a complete sentence. I thought perhaps you'd forgotten how to."

"Poor old Daddy," she said, coming over and surprising me with a kiss, "You must get awful tired of having a teen-ager daughter sometimes, don't you?"

Not tired so much, but worried. Like every parent of a teen-ager, I wonder what the future will bring. Teen-agers seem so unprepared for real life.

"You don't have to worry about me," says Tracy, whenever she feels even halfway serious. "I've got everything all figured out. After college, I'll join the Peace Corps, or something, and then I'll marry a millionaire and live happily ever after."

"Just like that?" I ask.

"Just like that, Daddy."

Well, it is nice to lead a well-planned life, isn't it?

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — Some of the biggest pay raises in the past year or so have gone to students rather than workers. That conclusion can be drawn from a comparison of starting salaries for the 1969 and 1968 classes.

And the question arises: If big wage increases to old workers can be inflationary, can't the increases to new workers also tend to increase prices?

Graduates of the Wharton School of Finance and Commerce, for example, won starting salaries of $1,082 a month this year compared to $959 a month in 1968. The difference amounts to $1,476 a year, or 12 per cent.

Although youngsters with masters degrees from Wharton and other business schools are likely to continue moving fast for several years, it only because of momentum, if only because of momentum, it's a sure bet that some years will pass without a pay raise of nearly that percentage.

In fact, should increases of this sort prevail throughout industry they would set off the wildest inflation this nation has ever known.

There is some evidence, in fact, that the beginning wages paid to graduates are part of the cause-effect of inflation, for management is likely to ward off grumblings from older workers by re-evaluating their pay scales as well.

It seems a contradiction then to read that Arthur Letcher, placement director of the parent University of Pennsylvania, disassociates the high beginning salaries from inflation and attributes them to competition instead.

"No matter what happens with inflation," he said, "I expect to see some talented Wharton graduates receiving $1,600 to $1,700 a month to start in a couple of years."

There is a good deal of evidence to support Letcher's judgment that it is competition for talent that produces the increases. There are several underpinnings to his case.

First, workers with the Master of Business Administration degree have talent. Straight from the classroom, they often are able to bring the latest innovations to companies whose concepts and notions have become so encrusted they are unable to compete in a changing environment.

Whether this demand continues is subject to some doubts, for more than a few companies have found MBAs a precocious lot who want the president's job within five years and toss a tantrum if they don't get it.

A second major reason for the demand is that in many companies there are big age gaps in management positions. A company is in trouble if its ablest managers are grouped around ages 30 and 60, with few men in the 40s and 50s.

Cyclists Fined, Jailed After Attack On Home

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Five members of the Casual Fools motorcycle club have been fined $50 each and sentenced to two days in jail for their attack on a suburban Maple Heights home Aug. 10, which ended with the woman of the house scattering the gang with rifle fire.

A newly married wife of one of the gang members also was fined $50, but because she is pregnant and under a doctor's care her two-day sentence was suspended.

The six were fined Monday in Garfield Heights Municipal Court after being found guilty of assault and disorderly conduct. Trespassing charges were dropped.

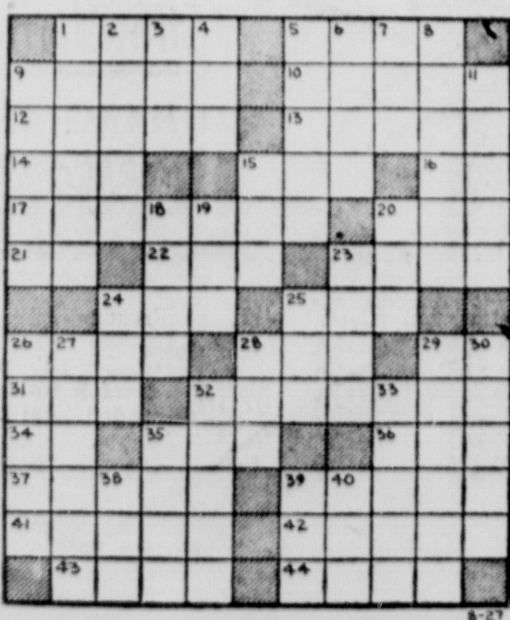

Police said about 25 members of the gang surrounded the home of Mr. and Mrs. Tony Palmer and fired shots, broke windows and shouted threats and obscenities. The attack stemmed from a telephone argument between one of the Palmer's teen-age daughter's boy friends and a gang member, police said.

Speaking Of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Is a pap smear the same as a biopsy? I have been told by my gynecologist that I need both. Does this mean that he suspects cancer?

Mrs. I. R., Kansas
Dear Mrs. R.: A pap smear and a biopsy are two different procedures. Both are done in order to acquire further information about the condition of a patient. Neither one is made because the doctor suspects a cancer but rather because he wants to rule out any such possibility.

A pap test is named after a very famous man, Dr. Papanicolaou who devised a method for smears taken from the cervix of the uterus and the vagina. The reliability of this test for the early detection of cancer has been responsible for saving many lives by early intensive treatment.

The test is performed painlessly by scraping material from the cervix and examining it under the microscope. Only a few minutes are needed for the test and it is recommended as a yearly health precaution.

It is a routine part of all gynecological examinations. Because of the simplicity with which this test is made the highest rate of cancer cures can be ascribed to it.

A biopsy, on the other hand, is the removal of a piece of tissue which is then sent to a laboratory. Here it is imbedded in a paraffin block and cut in extremely thin sections. It is then stained with special dyes and examined under the microscope by a specialist in this field, a pathologist. He is highly skilled in recognizing normal and abnormal cells in the specimen and can classify the tissue into one of many categories.

The method by which a biopsy is taken depends entirely on where the tissue under suspicion is located. I say suspicion, because the doctor is more anxious to eliminate the possibility of cancer than he is finding it. Therefore, there is no need to be terrified when a doctor suggests that one or both of these tests should be done.

How low is a low salt diet? Under what circumstances is it recommended?

Mr. G. M. D., Nebraska
Dear Mr. D.: There are a number of specific reasons why a physician may suggest the use of a low salt diet. People with high blood pressure, some types of kidney disease, heart failure and during intensive treatment with cortisone are placed on such a diet because of the need to reduce water retention. Salt is chemically known as NaCl or sodium chloride. The sodium portion of this salt is responsible for the accumulation of fluid.

The nature of the condition suggests how drastic should be the salt restriction. This depends entirely on the judgment of the physician who suggests it.

Under some situations, like very hot, humid weather, there may be an additional body loss of salt and a depletion may produce strange symptoms. The doctor, therefore, balances the salt intake and may use chemical studies of the blood to guide him in increasing or decreasing the salt intake.

Nixon's 'New Federalism'

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

Instead of "Creative Federalism" (which was Hubert Humphrey's bag) we are to have the "New Federalism." This is President Nixon's first approach to sloganizing the direction of his Administration. The New Federalism is supposed to throw some welfare responsibilities back to the states, along with the funds designed to support them.

The New Federalism is an improvement on the Great Society, but if it ends by subsidizing fifty smaller Great Societies in the separate states we could wind up paying for a lot of ill-considered local welfareism designed to keep local administrative bureaucracies in power. The test of the Nixon domestic welfare program is not to be found in who operates it, but in whether it will constitute what might be called a Fabianism-in-reverse. The British Fabians, it will be recalled, believed in slow, molecular changes toward the ultimate goal of full socialism: a Fabianism-in-reverse would work toward the re-establishment of an enterprise system that would employ practically everybody without having to resort to welfare projects, subsidies and annual upward adjustments of social security payments.

To do Nixon justice, his proposed changes in the welfare system do satisfy Fabianism-in-reverse requirements, at least in theory. The requirement that adults on welfare must accept suitable jobs, or at least report for training in useful skills that will lead to future employment, is in accordance with those campaign speeches that promised more people on payrolls and fewer on relief rolls. A welfare system that seeks to liquidate the need for welfare must satisfy the conservatives, provided it doesn't bog down in the execution.

The Fabianism-in-reverse requirement is also theoretically satisfied by the proposal to let able-bodied fathers remain with their families without excluding wives and dependent children from welfare if they need it.

The idea is to allow the father to work without deducting his entire income from the sum total of the relief granted. A federal floor of $1,600 a year would be placed under a family of four. This would be a higher floor than is now available in the rural South; it would be lower than is now paid in the big industrial states. This is something that Mayor John Lindsay of New York resents, but it would relieve the congestion in the northern ghettos, for these would be less incentive for the rural family to migrate to the city, where welfare payments are now at a peak.

The Nixon program is a nice blend of the thinking of White House adviser Daniel P. Moynihan, who has always been for family allowances, and economic counselor Arthur Burns, who believes that loafing should not be subsidized. And the theory behind Professor Milton Friedman's "negative income tax" has had its effect on the sliding scale provision that would allow a family on relief to keep earned income up to sixty dollars a month without losing any welfare subsidies. and part of any excess of earned income beyond sixty dollars as long as the family remains in a relief category.

Curiously, the attempt to harmonize Moynihan, Burns and Friedman takes us back to the so-called Speenhamland Law of the late Eighteenth Century in England. The Speenhamland "allowance system" specified that poor English families would receive a minimum income irrespective of their wages. When a loaf of bread cost a shilling, a "poor and industrious person" was guaranteed three shillings for his weekly support, whether procured by his own labor or by an allowance from the poor rates. This put a floor under everybody.

Unfortunately, the

Speenhamland Law did more than subsidize poor families; it also encouraged wage cutting by the employers of the time. They could do this without feeling particularly hard-hearted, for they were sure that the poor would have enough anyway. Eventually the British government had to repeal the Speenhamland system in order to establish the competitive labor market which the industrial revolution needed.

The difference between the England of Speenhamland times and the America of Richard Nixon is that we now have strong unions and minimum wage laws. Regardless of the assurance that every family of four would receive a minimum of $1,600 a year under Nixon's scheme, the employer would have to go on paying the minimum hourly rate anyway. He could not use the poor man's subsidy as an excuse to get a subsidy-via-wage-cutting for himself.

James Stewart

By BOB THOMAS
AP Television-Movie Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — What's a nice guy like James Stewart doing in a place like the Cheyenne Sporting Club?

The question is more pertinent when you know that the Cheyenne Sporting Club is a euphemism for a house of ill fame. That's what lovable Jim Stewart's new movie, "The Cheyenne Sporting Club," is all about.

"That's right," the actor confirmed. "There's no use in tryin' to hide it."

"But," adds the director, Gene Kelly, "it'll be the only picture about it that can be seen by family audiences."

"Now I'm not goin' to tell ya the plot, because I don't believe in that," Stewart told a reporter between scenes. "I learned that from Alfred Hitchcock, who said you should never give away the 'mysterious'—the thing that the whole plot hinges on."

He then proceeded to outline the plot: He and Henry Fonda are a pair of drifters who are poking cows in Texas when a letter catches up with Stewart. He learns that an uncle has willed him a piece of property in Cheyenne. He discovers to his chagrin that the property is a house, though not necessarily a home. Shirley Jones is the resident madam in charge of five girls.

What happens next is Stewart's mysterious. But he emphasized that the situation is played for laughs, not prurience.

Is there any nudity?

"Are you kiddin'?" he exclaimed. "I'm too damn old for that."

Stewart said he is doing "Cheyenne Sporting Club" because he thinks it's a whopping good comedy.

"That's what we need right now—comedy," he said. "Gee, they just don't seem to make 'em any more."

"Yeah, I know people say, 'There's nothing to laugh about in today's world.' I don't buy that. When I started out as an actor the whole country was in the grips of a depression. Yet that was a time when great comedians flourished. Like W. C. Fields. Now the new generation is taking to him, and no wonder: There wasn't anybody more antistablishment than Fields."

Mr. G.M.D., Nebraska Dear Mr. D.: There are a number of specific reasons why a physician may suggest the use of a low salt diet. People with high blood pressure, some types of kidney disease, heart failure and during intensive treatment with cortisone are placed on such a diet because of the need to reduce water retention. Salt is chemically known as NaCl or sodium chloride. The sodium portion of this salt is responsible for the accumulation of fluid.

The nature of the condition suggests how drastic should be the salt restriction. This depends entirely on the judgment of the physician who suggests it.

Under some situations, like very hot, humid weather, there may be an additional body loss of salt and a depletion may produce strange symptoms. The doctor, therefore, balances the salt intake and may use chemical studies of the blood to guide him in increasing or decreasing the salt intake.

Nixon's 'New Federalism'

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

Instead of "Creative Federalism" (which was Hubert Humphrey's bag) we are to have the "New Federalism." This is President Nixon's first approach to organizing the direction of his Administration. The New Federalism is supposed to throw some welfare responsibilities back to the states, along with the funds designed to support them.

The New Federalism is an improvement on the Great Society, but if it ends by subsidizing fifty smaller Great Societies in the separate states we could wind up paying for a lot of ill-considered local welfare programs designed to keep local administrative bureaucracies in power. The test of the Nixon domestic welfare program is not to be found in who operates it, but in whether it will constitute what might be called a Fabianism-in-reverse. The British Fabians, it will be recalled, believed in slow, molecular changes toward the ultimate goal of full socialism; a Fabianism-in-reverse would work toward the re-establishment of an enterprise system that would employ practically everybody without having to resort to welfare projects, subsidies and annual upward adjustments of social security payments.

To do Nixon justice, his proposed changes in the welfare system do satisfy Fabianism-in-reverse requirements, at least in theory. The requirement that adults on welfare must accept suitable jobs, or at least report for training in useful skills that will lead to future employment, is in accordance with those campaign speeches that promised more people on payrolls and fewer on relief rolls. A welfare system that seeks to liquidate the need for welfare must satisfy the conservatives, provided it doesn't bog down in the execution.

The Fabianism-in-reverse requirement is also theoretically satisfied by the proposal to let able-bodied fathers remain with their families without excluding wives and dependent children from welfare if they need it.

The idea is to allow the father to work without deducting his entire income from the sum total of the relief granted. A federal floor of $1,600 a year would be placed under a family of four. This would be a higher floor than is now available in the rural South; it would be lower than is now paid in the big industrial states. This is something that Mayor John Lindsay of New York resents, but it would relieve the congestion in the northern ghettos, for these would be less incentive for the rural family to migrate to the city, where welfare payments are now at a peak.

The Nixon program is a nice blend of the thinking of White House adviser Daniel P. Moynihan, who has always been for family allowances, and economic counselor Arthur Burns, who believes that loafing should not be subsidized. And the theory behind Professor Milton Friedman's "negative income tax" has had its effect on the sliding scale provision that would allow a family on relief to keep earned income up to sixty dollars a month without losing any welfare subsidies, and part of any excess of earned income beyond sixty dollars as long as the family remains in a relief category.

Curiously, the attempt to harmonize Moynihan, Burns and Friedman takes us back to the so-called Speenhamland Law of the late Eighteenth Century in England. The Speenhamland "allowance system" specified that poor English families would receive a minimum income irrespective of their wages. When a loaf of bread cost a shilling, a "poor and industrious person" was guaranteed three shillings for his weekly support, whether procured by his own labor or by an allowance from the poor rates. This put a floor under everybody.

Unfortunately, the

Speenhamland Law did more than subsidize poor families; it also encouraged wage cutting by the employers of the time. They could do this without feeling particularly hard-hearted, for they were sure that the poor would have enough anyway. Eventually the British government had to repeal the Speenhamland system in order to establish the competitive labor market which the industrial revolution needed.

The difference between the England of Speenhamland times and the America of Richard Nixon is that we now have strong unions and minimum wage laws. Regardless of the assurance that every family of four would receive a minimum of $1,600 a year under Nixon's scheme, the employer would have to go on paying the minimum hourly rate anyway. He could not use the poor man's subsidy as an excuse to get a subsidy-via-wage-cutting for himself.

James Stewart

By BOB THOMAS
AP Television-Movie Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — What's a nice guy like James Stewart doing in a place like the Cheyenne Sporting Club?

The question is more pertinent when you know that the Cheyenne Sporting Club is a euphemism for a house of ill fame. That's what lovely Jim Stewart's new movie, "The Cheyenne Sporting Club," is all about.

"That's right," the actor confirmed. "There's no use in tryin' to hide it."

"But," adds the director, Gene Kelly, "it'll be the only picture about it that can be seen by family audiences."

"Now I'm not goin' to tell ya the plot, because I don't believe in that," Stewart told a reporter between scenes. "I learned that from Alfred Hitchcock, who said you should never give away the 'mysterioso'—the thing that in whole plot hinges on."

He then proceeded to outline the plot: He and Henry Fonda are a pair of drifters who are poking cows in Texas when a letter catches up with Stewart. He learns that an uncle has willed him a piece of property in Cheyenne. He discovers to his chagrin that the property is a house, though not necessarily a home. Shirley Jones is the resident madam in charge of five girls.

What happens next is Stewart's mysterioso. But he emphasized that the situation is played for laughs, not prurency. Is there any nudity?

"Are you kiddin'?" he exclaimed. "I'm too damn old for that."

Stewart said he is doing "Cheyenne Sporting Club" because he thinks it's a whopping good comedy.

"That's what we need right now—comedy," he said. "Gee, they just don't seem to make 'em any more."

"Yeah, I know people say, 'There's nothing to laugh about in today's world.' I don't buy that. When I started out as an actor the whole country was in the grips of a depression. Yet that was a time when great comedians flourished. Like W.C. Fields. Now the new generation is taking to him, and no wonder: There wasn't anybody more antiestablishment than Fields."

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — Some of the biggest pay raises in the past year or so have gone to students rather than workers. That conclusion can be drawn from a comparison of starting salaries for the 1969 and 1968 classes.

And the question arises: If big wage increases to old workers can be inflationary, can't the increases to new workers also tend to increase prices?

Graduates of the Wharton School of Finance and Commerce, for example, won starting salaries of $1,082 a month this year compared to $959 a month in 1968. The difference amounts to $1,476 a year, or 12 per cent.

Although youngsters with masters degrees from Wharton and other business schools are likely to continue moving fast for several years, if only because of momentum, it's a sure bet that some years will pass without a pay raise of nearly that percentage.

In fact, should increases of this sort prevail throughout industry they would set off the wildest inflation this nation has ever known.

There is some evidence, in fact, that the beginning wages paid to graduates are part of the cause-effect of inflation, for management is likely to ward off grumblings from older workers by re-evaluating their pay scales as well.

It seems a contradiction then to read that Arthur Letcher, placement director of the parent University of Pennsylvania, disassociates the high beginning salaries from inflation and attributes them to competition instead.

"No matter what happens with inflation," he said, "I expect to see some talented Wharton graduates receiving $1,600 to $1,700 a month to start in a couple of years."

There is a good deal of evidence to support Letcher's judgment that it is competition for talent that produces the increases. There are several underpinnings to his case.

First, workers with the Master of Business Administration degree have talent. Straight from the classroom, they often are able to bring the latest innovations to companies whose concepts and notions have become so encrusted they are unable to compete in a changing environment.

Whether this demand continues is subject to some doubts, for more than a few companies have found MBAs a precocious lot who want the president's job within five years and toss a tantrum if they don't get it.

A second major reason for the demand is that in many companies there are big age gaps in management positions. A company is in trouble if its ablest managers are grouped around ages 30 and 60, with few men in the 40s and 50s.

Cyclists Fined, Jailed After Attack On Home

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Five members of the Casual Fools motorcycle club have been fined $50 each and sentenced to two days in jail for their attack on a suburban Maple Heights home Aug. 10, which ended with the woman of the house scattering the gang with rifle fire.

A newly married wife of one of the gang members also was fined $50, but because she is pregnant and under a doctor's care her two-day sentence was suspended.

The six were fined Monday in Garfield Heights Municipal Court after being found guilty of assault and disorderly conduct. Trespassing charges were dropped.

Police said about 25 members of the gang surrounded the home of Mr. and Mrs. Tony Palmer and fired shots, broke windows and shouted threats and obscenities. The attack stemmed from a telephone argument between one of the Palmer's teen-age daughter's boy friends and a gang member, police said.

Cole-Cordle Marriage Performed By Candlelight

MRS. TERRY ALLAN CORDLE

Altar candles and candelabra illuminated the Amanda Presbyterian Church for the marriage of Miss Barbara Kay Cole and Mr. Terry Allen Cordle.

The Rev. Whitney Trousdale performed the double ring ceremony 7:30 p. m. Friday, Aug. 22, before the altar adorned with palms and altar vases holding arrangements of blue and white carnations and baby's breath.

Mr. and Mrs. Hubert W. Cole, Stoutsville, are the parents of the bride and the groom is the son of Mrs. Arleta Cordle of Stoutsville and the late Mr. Clarence Cordle.

Mrs. Richard Hyme, organist, and Mrs. David Huffer, vocalist, presented a program of pre-nuptial music. Selections included "You'll Never Walk Alone," "I Believe" and "Wedding Prayer," and as the couple knelt at the altar, during the ceremony, "The Lord's Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride selected for her wedding day a gown of white bridal satin with bodice and full length sleeves of Chantilly lace. The high scalloped neckline was edged with seed pearls and the skirt flowed gracefully from an empire waistline to a chapel train. Her elbow length veil of illusion was attached to a cluster of orange blossoms and she carried a white lace-covered Bible with gold mums, baby's breath and white satin streamers.

Miss Pamela Kay Cole served her twin sister as maid of honor. She was attired in a floor length baby blue brocade gown in the princess style with short sleeves and scoop neckline. Her headpiece was a brief mashing veil of illusion trimmed with seed pearls. She carried a blue parasol of pearl trimmed net, filled with assorted blue flowers.

Bridesmaids were Miss Cheryl Lovett, Mrs. Betty Jones and Miss Karen Cordle, sister of the groom. Junior bridesmaids were Miss Dayna Hursey and Miss Kathleen Cole, sister of the bride.

Flower girl was Jeanna Jones, dressed in a white eyelet floor length gown. David Gerhardt, ring bearer, wore a black velvet suit with short trousers.

Dale Cordle performed the duties of best man for his brother. Seating the guests were Danny Davis, Tom Davis, Rick Stone, Steve Cordle and Buddy Cordle.

Mrs. Cole selected for her daughter's wedding a light pink dress with matching accessories and a deep pink carnation corsage.

Mrs. Cordle wore a light blue dress with matching accessories and a deep blue carnation corsage.

The social room of the church was the setting for the reception, which immediately followed the ceremony. The white linen covered bride's table held a three tiered cake decorated with blue and white flowers and topped with bride and groom figurines. A crystal punch bowl and blue tapers in a candelabra completed the decorations.

Miss Shirley Hiles presided over the guest book and assisting as hostesses were Mrs. Marie Warner, Mrs. Jerry Cole, Miss Donna Buckland, Miss Renee Abbott and Miss Pauline Blevins.

For her going-away costume the bride wore a brown lace dress with beige accessories and a corsage of gold mums.

The new Mrs. Cordle is a graduate of Amanda-Clearcreek High School and Nationwide Beauty Academy. She is employed as a hair stylist at "Coiffures by Mr. Nick" in Columbus.

The bridegroom, also a graduate of Amanda-Clearcreek High School, attended Ohio State University. He completed his training at Fort Jackson, S.C., and will return to NCO School at Fort Benning, Ga.

MRS. GENE ARNOLD CLIFTON

Miss Carolyn Louise Lytle Bride Of Gene A. Clifton

The Rev. A. A. Ledford officiated Aug. 23, at the 6:30 p. m. candlelight marriage service in Columbus' El Paso Church of God for Miss Carolyn Louise Lytle, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. George Lytle, Dayton, and Dr. Gene Arnold

Clifton, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Harold Clifton, 307 S. Court St.

The bride's sister, Miss Gaynelle Lytle was maid of honor. The bridegroom's father was best man and ushers included the bride's brother Mr. Dudley Lytle, Elyria, and brother-in-law of the groom, Mr. Ted Goodman, Columbus.

Music was provided by Mrs. Evelyn Carter, organist, and Miss Betty Pfau, vocal soloist.

After a honeymoon in Nova Scotia, the couple will reside in Springfield where the bridegroom, since his return from Air Force duty in Turkey, is a dentist. The bride, a teacher of the neurologically impaired, is a graduate of Lee and Peabody Colleges and has a Master of Arts degree from Ohio State University.

Frozen Lobster Tails Head Up Menu Interest

By ALICE DENHOFF

For a change of dining pace, frozen South African rock lobster tails are ideal. Good in salads, the lobster tails also star in a wide variety of fine dishes for company luncheons or dinners.

Here is a for-instance:

SOUTH AFRICAN ROCK LOBSTER DIVAN

2 packages (9 ounces each) South African rock lobster tails
2 packages frozen broccoli

4 tablespoons butter or margarine
3 tablespoons flour
1 1/2 cups milk
4 tablespoons grated Cheddar cheese
Salt and pepper
2 tablespoons sherry
Lemon slices

Drop the rock lobster tails into boiling salted water. When water boils, cook for 2-3 minutes. Drain at once and drench with cold water. Cut along each edge of underside membrane with kitchen shears and strip off. Remove meat from shell in one piece and keep hot.

Boil broccoli according to package directions; drain. Line casseroles with broccoli; place 2 rock lobster tails on top. Melt butter, add flour; cook until slightly colored. Add milk gradually, then stir in cheese. Season to taste with salt and pepper. Stir in sherry and heat through, stirring constantly, but do not let sauce boil. Pour sauce over rock lobster and broccoli; put under broiler for a few minutes before serving. Garnish with lemon slices.

For that very important dinner, do a Wellington but with the lobster tails instead of beef. It is quite a complicated job, but it may be prepared ahead of time, wrapped closely and refrigerated or frozen until ready to be baked. Allow 15 minutes extra baking time if lobster is cooked from frozen state.

ROCK LOBSTER WELLINGTON

4 packages (9 ounces each) frozen South African rock lobster tails
2 eggs, well beaten
1 cup finely chopped celery
1 large onion, chopped
1-4 cup butter
4 cups soft bread crumbs
1 teaspoon grated lemon rind
2 tablespoons lemon juice
Salt
Pepper

1 package pie crust mix
2 cups of your favorite tomato or mushroom sauce
Prepare lobster tails as described in first recipe, but reserve some of the shells for filling with hot vegetables such as peas, carrots, green beans.

Roll out 3-4 of the dough into an oblong 10 x 14 inches on a lightly floured board. Shape rock lobster mixture on pie crust into a long, narrow loaf. Moisten edges of pie crust with water. Fold crust around loaf of rock lobster enclosing it completely. Place seam side down on a greased cookie sheet. Brush with milk. Roll out remaining pie crust and cut into strips and flower shapes using a sharp knife and cookie cutter. Place decorations on loaf. Brush again with milk.

Bake at 400 degrees for 30 to 35 minutes or until crust is golden brown. Serve with tomato or mushroom sauce and with vegetable-filled shells.

Serves 6.

Cole-Cordle Marriage Performed By Candlelight

MRS. TERRY ALLAN CORDLE

Altar candles and candelabra illuminated the Amanda Presbyterian Church for the marriage of Miss Barbara Kay Cole and Mr. Terry Allen Cordle.

The Rev. Whitney Trousdale performed the double ring ceremony 7:30 p. m. Friday, Aug. 22, before the altar adorned with palms and altar vases holding arrangements of blue and white carnations and baby's breath.

Mr. and Mrs. Hubert W. Cole, Stoutsville, are the parents of the bride and the groom is the son of Mrs. Arleta Cordle of Stoutsville and the late Mr. Clarence Cordle.

Mrs. Richard Hyme, organist, and Mrs. David Huffer, vocalist, presented a program of pre-nuptial music. Selections included "You'll Never Walk Alone," "I Believe" and "Wedding Prayer," and as the couple knelt at the altar, during the ceremony, "The Lord's Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride selected for her wedding day a gown of white bridal satin with bodice and full length sleeves of Chantilly lace. The high scalloped neckline was edged with seed pearls and the skirt flowed gracefully from an empire waistline to a chapel train. Her elbow length veil of illusion was attached to a cluster of orange blossoms and she carried a white lace-covered Bible with gold mums, baby's breath and white satin streamers.

Miss Pamela Kay Cole served her twin sister as maid of honor. She was attired in a floor length baby blue brocade gown in the princess style with short sleeves and scoop neckline. Her headpiece was a brief matching veil of illusion trimmed with seed pearls. She carried a blue parasol of pearl trimmed net, filled with assorted blue flowers.

Bridesmaids were Miss Cheryl Lovett, Mrs. Betty Jones and Miss Karen Cordle, sister of the groom. Junior bridesmaids were Miss Dayna Hursey and Miss Kathleen Cole, sister of the bride.

Flower girl was Jeanna Jones, dressed in a white eyelet floor length gown. David Gerhardt, ring bearer, wore a black velvet suit with short trousers.

Dale Cordle performed the duties of best man for his brother. Seating the guests were Danny Davis, Tom Davis, Rick Stone, Steve Cordle and Buddy Cordle.

Mrs. Cole selected for her daughter's wedding a light pink dress with matching accessories and a deep pink carnation corsage.

Mrs. Cordle wore a light blue dress with matching accessories and a deep blue carnation corsage.

The social room of the church was the setting for the reception, which immediately followed the ceremony. The white linen covered bride's table held a three tiered cake decorated with blue and white flowers and topped with bride and groom figurines. A crystal punch bowl and blue tapers in candelabra completed the decorations.

Miss Shirley Hiles presided over the guest book and assisting as hostesses were Mrs. Marie Warner, Mrs. Jerry Cole, Miss Donna Buckland, Miss Renee Abbott and Miss Pauline Blevins.

For her going-away costume the bride wore a brown lace dress with beige accessories and a corsage of gold mums.

The new Mrs. Cordle is a graduate of Amanda - Clearcreek High School and Nationwide Beauty Academy. She is employed as a hair stylist at "Coiffures by Mr. Nick" in Columbus.

The bridegroom, also a graduate of Amanda-Clearcreek High School, attended Ohio State University. He completed his training at Fort Jackson, S.C., and will return to NCO School at Fort Benning, Ga.

MRS. GENE ARNOLD CLIFTON

Miss Carolyn Louise Lytle Bride Of Gene A. Clifton

The Rev. A. A. Ledford officiated Aug. 23, at the 6:30 p. m. candlelight marriage service in Columbus' El Paso Church of God for Miss Carolyn Louise Lytle, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. George Lytle, Dayton, and Dr. Gene Arnold Clifton, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. Harold Clifton, 307 S. Court St.

The bride's sister, Miss Gaynelle Lytle was maid of honor. The bridegroom's father was best man and ushers included the bride's brother Mr. Dudley Lytle, Elyria, and brother-in-law of the groom, Mr. Ted Goodman, Columbus.

Music was provided by Mrs. Evelyn Carter, organist, and Miss Betty Pflaumer, vocal soloist.

After a honeymoon in Nova Scotia, the couple will reside in Springfield where the bridegroom, since his return from Air Force duty in Turkey, is a dentist. The bride, a teacher of the neurologically impaired, is a graduate of Lee and Peabody Colleges and has a Master of Arts degree from Ohio State University.

Lamb Import Quotas Have Little Chance

WASHINGTON (AP) — Odds are that a lamb import quota in racehorse clothing won't cross the finish line in Congress.

But Sen. Wallace F. Bennett is trying.

The Utah Republican already has won Senate Finance Committee approval of an amendment setting a lamb import quota as part of a House-approved measure designed to prevent multiple payment of customs duties on race horses temporarily sent abroad.

But Bennett concedes the chances of final passage of his amendment are small.

The attempt is noteworthy because it is the only quota proposal—and a relatively minor one at that—which has been pushed hard this year in Congress. This is in contrast to recent years when there has been a drive to give a wide range of American industries import quota protection from foreign competition.

Two years ago the Johnson administration had to mount a major effort to turn back quota demands on products ranging from electronic gear to strawberries.

So far President Nixon has not had to face the problem.

In the cause of steel, for example, a voluntary agreement worked out with Japan and major European producing countries early this year apparently has cut steel shipments to the U.S. considerably.

Sen. Vance Hartke, D-Ind., a leading advocate of mandatory steel import quotas in past years, said he still was watching this agreement closely but that it seemed to be working well.

A Hartke aide said the latest figures showed steel imports down 22 per cent for the first half of this year compared with the same period in 1968.

Cincy Newsman Dies

CINCINNATI (AP) — James Golden, a reporter at The Cincinnati Enquirer for nearly 40 years and a pioneer in medical and science writing, is dead at 61.

"I was scared when I read that his men refused to move out," said Mrs. Shurtz, an elementary school teacher here. "I was afraid the men weren't reacting well to him."

But she said news accounts of the incident have convinced her that her husband was not to blame for the near mutiny.

Lt. Shurtz is a 1967 graduate of the University of Toledo, where he participated in the Army ROTC Program. He began active duty in September 1967.

The Shurtzes were married in February 1968 just before he was sent to Alaska for Ranger training. He was sent to Vietnam in July.

Mrs. Shurtz said her husband at first wanted to follow the Army career of his father, retired Lt. Col. Eugene Shurtz Sr. of Davenport, Iowa, but now plans to leave the service at the end of his current hitch and settle down in Toledo. His grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Irving Whittle, live here.

Mrs. Shurtz said she and her husband hope to be reunited in Hawaii in February, during his rest and recreation leave, to celebrate their second wedding anniversary.

Senior Drivers A Risk? They May Be Best On Road!

WASHINGTON (AP) — A researcher says senior citizens may not be the highway hazard everyone from younger drivers to insurance companies claims they are.

A Denver jurist reported Tuesday that a study of automobile driving records of folks aged 65 and over has disclosed "the senior driver is not the universal risk he has been assumed to be. "And," added the report by Judge Sherman G. Finesilver, "he may be among the best drivers on the highway."

"This should raise a beacon of hope for senior drivers whose abilities have been demeaned, licenses jeopardized and insurance threatened or surcharged," said Finesilver, a researcher at the University of Denver College of Law.

In a report to the Eighth International Congress of Gerontology, Finesilver said the conclusions were drawn from a recently-completed statistical study of the driving records—including accident rates—of senior motorists in 30 states and the District of Columbia.

Declaring the federally-supported study was the first of its kind in the United States, the judge listed these findings:

—Although over-65 drivers comprise an average of 7.6 per cent of all licensed drivers, they account for an average of only 4.8 per cent of all accidents—including fatalities, injury-producing, and property-damage-only mishaps.

—They average 37 per cent fewer accidents totally than projectable from their proportion of the driver population. And their record is even better when only injury-producing accidents are considered.

—In both categories—that is, all types of accidents combined, and injury-producers considered separately—the over-65's have the best records of any of six age-groups studied. The other groups ranged from ages 55-64 down to ages 25 and under.

U.S. Weather Warm, Cold

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Crisp late - summer weather cooled the Pacific Northwest and the Northeast today and dropped the temperature near freezing in northern New York State before dawn.

Warm and sometimes muggy conditions prevailed in much of the nation between the two cool sections. Thundershowers persisted from the southern Rockies into the Plains.

The mercury fell to 23 at Wapertown, N.Y., at the eastern tip of Lake Ontario. Readings in the 40s chilled scattered areas from Michigan to interior New England and inland portions of the Northwest also.

Showers over the Rockies and Plains generally were not heavy, though up to 1½ inches of rain drenched parts of Texas during the night.

Wing muscles of some female mosquitoes equal 35 per cent of their total body weight.

Egyptians View Area Farm Crops

Kamal Farag and Sabry Ismail of Cairo, Egypt spent Monday in Pickaway County visiting area farms.

Accompanied by Vaughn Grubb, Route 1, Stoutsville, USDA agent, the Egyptian officials viewed soybean and corn fields as part of a program to advance techniques in estimating crop yields in their native country.

Both Farag and Ismail are attending the Agriculture Training Center in Washington, D. C. for a period of 12 months to learn agricultural census. Farm visits have taken them to West Virginia, Virginia, Pennsylvania and Ohio.

Farag, an Egyptian government official serving in Central Agency for Public Mobilization Statistics, is a commerce graduate currently specializing in statistics. Through training in the United States it will enable him to project the agricultural census for 1970 in his country. He stated that from his beneficial visit to the United States he will be able to advance statistics in Egypt—the purpose of his visit.

Sabry Ismail is associated with the Ministry of Agriculture of Egypt. He is an agriculture agronomist, and has a professional degree from the University of Cairo, faculty of agriculture. A tour of U.S. farms permits objective measurement for Ismail by which yield and acreage can be improved in his country.

Monday's tour of Pickaway County farms was one of the five days the officials will spend in the state of Ohio.

Hippies Get Needed Sea Bath By Boys

DURBAN, South Africa (AP) — Four hippies living in the rocks near Durban's north pier were given an impromptu scrubbing in the sea by a bunch of beachboys who considered they were not clean enough. The beachboys threw the long haired youths into the breakers but did not give similar treatment to a girl with them.

Wife Thinks Battle Fatigue Caused Leadership Troubles

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—Cheryl Shurtz believes battle fatigue, not an inability on the part of her husband to lead, caused troops under his command in Vietnam to balk at an order to move on the enemy.

Her husband, Lt. Eugene Shurtz Jr., 26, was faced with a small antiwar revolt in the battlefield Sunday when his battle-weary and understrength Alpha Company refused to move against North Vietnamese troops hidden in the jungle slopes of Nui Lon Mountain.

The troops later were persuaded to move out.

Lt. Shurtz was relieved of his command and transferred to a new post with the 196th Brigade of the American Division. But Army officials said no charges would be brought against Shurtz and no formal investigation is being conducted.

"I was scared when I read that his men refused to move out," said Mrs. Shurtz, an elementary school teacher here. "I was afraid the men weren't reacting well to him."

But she said news accounts of the incident have convinced her that her husband was not to blame for the near mutiny.

Lt. Shurtz is a 1967 graduate of the University of Toledo, where he participated in the Army ROTC Program. He began active duty in September 1967.

Lamb Import Quotas Have Little Chance

But Sen. Wallace F. Bennett is trying.

The Utah Republican already has won Senate Finance Committee approval of an amendment setting a lamb import quota as part of a House-approved measure designed to prevent multiple payment of customs duties on race horses temporarily sent abroad.

But Bennett concedes the chances of final passage of his amendment are small.

The attempt is noteworthy because it is the only quota proposal—and a relatively minor one at that—which has been pushed hard this year in Congress. This is in contrast to recent years when there has been a drive to give a wide range of American industries import quota protection from foreign competition.

Two years ago the Johnson administration had to mount a major effort to turn back quota demands on products ranging from electronic gear to strawberries.

So far President Nixon has not had to face the problem.

In the cause of steel, for example, a voluntary agreement worked out with Japan and major European producing countries early this year apparently has cut steel shipments to the U.S. considerably.

Sen. Vance Hartke, D-Ind., a leading advocate of mandatory steel import quotas in past years, said he still was watching this agreement closely but that it seemed to be working well.

A Hartke aide said the latest figures showed steel imports down 22 per cent for the first half of this year compared with the same period in 1968.

Cincy Newsman Dies

CINCINNATI (AP) — James Golden, a reporter at The Cincinnati Enquirer for nearly 40 years and a pioneer in medical and science writing, is dead at 61.

"I was scared when I read that his men refused to move out," said Mrs. Shurtz, an elementary school teacher here. "I was afraid the men weren't reacting well to him."

But she said news accounts of the incident have convinced her that her husband was not to blame for the near mutiny.

Lt. Shurtz is a 1967 graduate of the University of Toledo, where he participated in the Army ROTC Program. He began active duty in September 1967.

The Shurtzes were married in February 1968 just before he was sent to Alaska for Ranger training. He was sent to Vietnam in July.

Mrs. Shurtz said her husband at first wanted to follow the Army career of his father, retired Lt. Col. Eugene Shurtz Sr. of Davenport, Iowa, but now plans to leave the service at the end of his current hitch and settle down in Toledo. His grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Irving Whittle, live here.

Mrs. Shurtz said she and her husband hope to be reunited in Hawaii in February, during his rest and recreation leave, to celebrate their second wedding anniversary.

Senior Drivers A Risk? They May Be Best On Road!

WASHINGTON (AP) — A researcher says senior citizens may not be the highway hazard everyone from younger drivers to insurance companies claims they are.

A Denver jurist reported Tuesday that a study of automobile driving records of folks aged 65 and over has disclosed "the senior driver is not the universal risk he has been assumed to be. "And," added the report by Judge Sherman G. Finesilver, "he may be among the best drivers on the highway."

"This should raise a beacon of hope for senior drivers whose abilities have been demeaned, licenses jeopardized and insurance threatened or surcharged," said Finesilver, a researcher at the University of Denver College of Law.

In a report to the Eighth International Congress of Gerontology, Finesilver said the conclusions were drawn from a recently-completed statistical study of the driving records—including accident rates—of senior motorists in 30 states and the District of Columbia.

Declaring the federally-supported study was the first of its kind in the United States, the judge listed these findings:

—Although over-65 drivers comprise an average of 7.6 per cent of all licensed drivers, they account for an average of only 4.8 per cent of all accidents—including fatalities, injury-producing, and property-damage-only mishaps.

—They average 37 per cent fewer accidents totally than projectable from their proportion of the driver population. And their record is even better when only injury-producing accidents are considered.

—In both categories—that is, all types of accidents combined, and injury-producers considered separately—the over-65's have the best records of any of six age-groups studied. The other groups ranged from ages 55-64 down to ages 25 and under.

U.S. Weather Warm, Cold

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Crisp late-summer weather cooled the Pacific Northwest and the Northeast today and dropped the temperature near freezing in northern New York State before dawn.

Warm and sometimes muggy conditions prevailed in much of the nation between the two cool sections. Thundershowers persisted from the southern Rockies into the Plains.

The mercury fell to 23 at Waretown, N.Y., at the eastern tip of Lake Ontario. Readings in the 40s chilled scattered areas from Michigan to interior New England and inland portions of the Northwest also.

Showers over the Rockies and Plains generally were not heavy, though up to 1½ inches of rain drenched parts of Texas during the night.

Wing muscles of some female mosquitoes equal 35 per cent of their total body weight.

Egyptians View Area Farm Crops

Kamal Farag and Sabry Ismail of Cairo, Egypt spent Monday in Pickaway County visiting area farms.

Accompanied by Vaughn Grubb, Route 1, Stoutsville, USDA agent, the Egyptian officials viewed soybean and corn fields as part of a program to advance techniques in estimating crop yields in their native country.

Both Farag and Ismail are attending the Agriculture Training Center in Washington, D. C. for a period of 12 months to learn agricultural census. Farm visits have taken them to West Virginia, Virginia, Pennsylvania and Ohio.

Farag, an Egyptian government official serving in Central Agency for Public Mobilization Statistics, is a commerce graduate currently specializing in statistics. Through training in the United States it will enable him to project the agricultural census for 1970 in his country. He stated that from his beneficial visit to the United States he will be able to advance statistics in Egypt—the purpose of his visit.

Sabry Ismail is associated with the Ministry of Agriculture of Egypt. He is an agriculture agronomist, and has a professional degree from the University of Cairo, faculty of agriculture. A tour of U.S. farms permits objective measurement for Ismail by which yield and acreage can be improved in his country.

Monday's tour of Pickaway County farms was one of the five days the officials will spend in the state of Ohio.

Hippies Get Needed Sea Bath By Boys

DURBAN, South Africa (AP) — Four hippies living in the rocks near Durban's north pier were given an impromptu scrubbing in the sea by a bunch of beachboys who considered they were not clean enough. The beachboys threw the long haired youths into the breakers but did not give similar treatment to a girl with them.

Wife Thinks Battle Fatigue Caused Leadership Troubles

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—Cheryl Shurtz believes battle fatigue, not an inability on the part of her husband to lead, caused troops under his command in Vietnam to balk at an order to move on the enemy.

Her husband, Lt. Eugene Shurtz Jr., 26, was faced with a small antiwar revolt in the battlefield Sunday when his battle-weary and understrength Alpha Company refused to move against North Vietnamese troops hidden in the jungle slopes of Nui Lon Mountain.

The troops later were persuaded to move out.

Lt. Shurtz was relieved of his command and transferred to a new post with the 196th Brigade of the American Division. But Army officials said no charges would be brought against Shurtz and no formal investigation is being conducted.

"I was scared when I read that his men refused to move out," said Mrs. Shurtz, an elementary school teacher here. "I was afraid the men weren't reacting well to him."

But she said news accounts of the incident have convinced her that her husband was not to blame for the near mutiny.

Lt. Shurtz is a 1967 graduate of the University of Toledo, where he participated in the Army ROTC Program. He began active duty in September 1967.

Food Distribution Cost Is Two Thirds Of Grocery Bill

10 The Circleville Herald, Wed. Aug. 27, 1969
Circleville, Ohio

By GAYLORD SHAW and DON KENDALL
Associated Press Writers
WASHINGTON (AP) — The cost of getting food from the farmer to the housewife has soared 160 per cent in two decades and now consumes two-thirds of America's grocery bill. The House Agriculture Committee cites these figures:

Twenty years ago, when Americans spent $45 billion a year for food, the farmer got about $20 billion and the middlemen $25 billion. Today, when the nation's annual food bill is about $90 billion, the farmer gets about $30 billion and the middlemen about $60 billion.

The recent upward trend—the Labor Department reported Friday that the cost of living advanced again in July and is going up at the fastest rate in 18 years—has been so steep that in some areas housewives are talking of boycotts in an attempt to bring down the cost of food.

"My food bill averaged $135 a month in 1949 and the same stuff would cost me about $275 monthly in 1969. That hurts," said Mrs. Jan Stophlett, who is leading a protest movement in Cocoa Beach, Fla.

Similar complaints are being sounded elsewhere.

The widening farm-to-consumer gap is clear in a comparison of Agriculture Department statistics showing what happened to the money a housewife paid for a loaf of bread 20 years ago and what happens to it today.

In 1949, the average price of a one-pound loaf of white bread was 13.5 cents. Today, the same loaf costs 22.9 cents.

In 1949, the retailer's slice of the bread price was 2.2 cents. Today it is 5 cents.

In 1949, the baker and wholesaler—the key middlemen—got 6.3 cents. Today they get 12.2 cents.

In 1949, 1.7 cents of the retail price went for milling, grain handling and transportation. Today the figure is 2.4 cents.

In 1949, the farmer received 3.3 cents for his wheat and other ingredients—such as lard, sugar and dried milk—that went into the loaf of bread. Today he gets the same 3.3 cents.

The staff of the House Agriculture Committee, in a report this year, pointed directly at the middlemen in discussing the reasons for rising prices.

"Processors and marketing agencies—the middlemen between farmers and consumers—experiencing higher costs, have been successful in adding greatly increased charges to farmers' products before they reach the consumer," the report said.

"... All the increase in retail price—and more—goes to the middlemen. None accrues to farmers."

Middlemen bristle at the contention they're solely to blame for higher prices.

"It's inflation—pure and simple," said Charles Adams, president of the National Association of Food Chains.

Adams and other spokesmen for marketers tick off their own rising cost—labor costs up more than 100 per cent in 20 years, costs of containers and packaging material up 40 per cent, overhead costs such as rent up 96 per cent.

Housewives, they add, also are demanding foods that require more and more processing—canned chocolate pudding, for example, or frozen three-course dinners.

A commission set up by former President Johnson to study food marketing costs, however, was critical of "the substantial cost built into the price of food as a result of various forms of selling effort—advertising, sales promotion, expensive packaging, salesmen."

S. Kent Christensen, an economist for the food chain association, said supermarket chain industry profits have dwindled steadily, dropping from 1.41 cents per dollar of sales in 1964 to .99 of a cent last year. He cited these figures from an industry-financed study by Cornell University—a study which also disclosed that the average supermarket's annual sales have climbed for 12 consecutive years and now stand at $1,679,000.

Viewed another way, food chains had after-tax profits last year of 9.18 per cent of their net worth, the Cornell study said. The Agriculture Department, however, paces the figure for 58 large chains at 11.5 per cent of net worth, up slightly from the previous year.

The increase in food manufacturers' profits "was due mostly to a strong rise in sales volume rather than an improvement in profit margins," department economists concluded.

Middlemen, added Christensen, "have not passed along their costs in the form of price increases as fast as they occur." But farmers who look at the middlemen's profit levels believe they have been left behind.

Farmers like Joe Stucky of Pretty Prairie, Kan., point out that the typical American family spends less than 17 per cent of its take-home pay on food, compared with 20 per cent in 1960 and 22 per cent in 1940.

There's a widely held belief among farmers that consumers should be paying more for their groceries.

"I think they should," said John Wagner, a Dane County, Wis., dairy farmer. "Compared with other countries they're living cheap—they're making high enough incomes to afford paying more for food."

Housewives, of course, don't agree.

"I used to buy steak frequently," said Mrs. Irene Berlin of Wilmette, Ill., "but now I have to settle for ground beef—which isn't cheap for a large family."

It's the recent upward surge in beef prices that has brought talk of housewife boycotts.

On Long Island, housewives staged a protest rally with chants like "Let the meat rot," and "Prices too high, we won't buy."

Beef prices shot up this spring and summer, analysts said, because production hadn't kept pace with America's awesome craving for beef—per capita consumption has nearly doubled since World War II to 110 pounds a year.

Cattlemen had been keeping the size of their herds in check, remembering past money-losing periods of overproduction. But now, spurred by higher prices, they are moving cautiously to enlarge their herds.

As more and more cattle reach market this fall, the slaughter price of choice beef is expected to drop. But industry officials predict that the wholesale and retail markups will be widened when live cattle prices drop. The net result for the housewife: Retail beef prices will stay about the same as now, or even climb higher.

"I don't think anybody in this country can expect to see $1 round steak again, and certainly not less than about $1.39 for sirloin," said Lyle Liggett of the National Independent Meat Packers Association.

In its last quarterly report, the Agriculture Department said the farmer's share of the price paid for a pound of choice beef was 65 per cent. The wholesaler's share was 10 per cent and the retailer's share 25 per cent.

This summer, the average price nationwide for sirloin steak was $1.49 a pound—up 20 cents from six months earlier. In some places, such as Los Angeles, it was carrying prices of from $1.89 to $2.49 a pound.

Food Distribution Cost Is Two Thirds Of Grocery Bill

10 The Circleville Herald, Wed. Aug. 27, 1969
Circleville, Ohio

By GAYLORD SHAW and DON KENDALL
Associated Press Writers
WASHINGTON (AP) — The cost of getting food from the farmer to the housewife has soared 160 per cent in two decades and now consumes two-thirds of America's grocery bill. The House Agriculture Committee cites these figures:

Twenty years ago, when Americans spent $45 billion a year for food, the farmer got about $20 billion and the middlemen $25 billion. Today, when the nation's annual food bill is about $80 billion, the farmer gets about $30 billion and the middlemen about $50 billion.

The recent upward trend—the Labor Department reported Friday that the cost of living advanced again in July and is going up at the fastest rate in 18 years—has been so steep that in some areas housewives are talking of boycotts in an attempt to bring down the cost of food.

"My food bill averaged $135 a month in 1964 and the same stuff would cost me about $275 monthly in 1969. That hurts," said Mrs. Jan Stophlett, who is leading a protest movement in Cocoa Beach, Fla.

Similar complaints are being sounded elsewhere.

The widening farm-to-consumer gap is clear in a comparison of Agriculture Department statistics showing what happened to the money a housewife paid for a loaf of bread 20 years ago and what happens to it today.

In 1949, the average price of a one-pound loaf of white bread was 13.5 cents. Today, the same loaf costs 22.9 cents.

In 1949, the retailer's slice of the bread price was 2.2 cents. Today it is 5 cents.

In 1949, the baker and wholesaler—the key middlemen—got 6.3 cents. Today they get 12.2 cents.

In 1949, 1.7 cents of the retail price went for milling, grain handling and transportation. Today the figure is 2.4 cents.

In 1949, the farmer received 3.3 cents for his wheat and other ingredients—such as lard, sugar and dried milk—that went into the loaf of bread. Today he gets the same 3.3 cents.

Effect Of Gas In Irish Riots May Be Probed

LONDON (AP) — The British government offered Tuesday to send a specialist to Northern Ireland to check on reports that many of those exposed to CS riot control gas during the religious rioting two weeks ago are still suffering from diarrhea, vomiting and abdominal pains. Babies particularly were reported affected.

London newspapers seized on the reports, and editorials suggested the police in Londonderry shouldn't have been authorized to use the gas because not enough was known about its effects.

It was the first time the gas had been used in the United Kingdom against rioters. Doctors in Londonderry complained that the authorities were not able to give them the composition of the gas and they were unable to treat victims of it properly.

A spokesman for the British Defense Ministry said a medical officer with experience in chemical warfare agents would go to Ulster if requested by the government there.

He said there was concern in London because the modified tear gas had been used for some 10 years and there had never been reports before of prolonged side effects. CS is used, he said, because the tears, coughing and difficult breathing it causes usually clear up 10 minutes after the victim gets fresh air.

The Northern Ireland Parliament will be recalled Wednesday to set up a court of inquiry into the violent clashes between Catholics and Protestants, the government announced.

A government statement said the tribunal will have high court powers, including the authority to compel witnesses to appear.

Britain's new Northern Ireland trouble shooter, Oliver Wright, flew from London to Belfast today to begin his term as official adviser to the Ulster government. He is a deputy undersecretary of the Foreign Office.

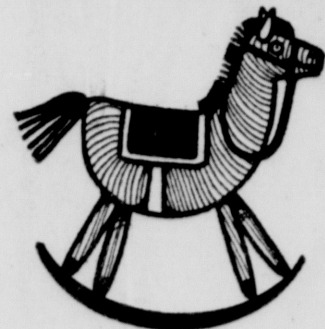

In Northern Ireland, meanwhile, more than 90 per cent of the Protestant special police were reported balking at British army orders to turn in their arms.

North Dakota Governor Proclaims 'Cat Week'

BISMARCK, N.D. (AP) — "We are indebted to our friend for such useful words as cat-astrophe, cat-alogue, cat-nap, cat-sup, cat-tle, cat-apult, cat-aract, cat-hedral and kitty-cornered," the governor said.

And with that in mind, North Dakota Gov. William Guy has declared Nov. 2-8 as International Cat Week in the state.

Indians' Beach Closing Move Not 'Unchangeable', Claim

OLYMPIA, Wash. (AP) — Washington State Atty. Gen. Slade Gorton says he doesn't believe the closure of 25 miles of Pacific Coast beach by the Quinault Indians is "unchallengeable."

The strip on Washington's scenic Olympic Peninsula was closed early Monday.

'Sing Out' Scheduled At State Fair Sunday

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Some 1,500 high school and college age young people from all parts of the state join voices Sunday morning in the Sing Out Ohio Valley chorus at the Ohio State Fair grandstand.

The young chorus, part of the "Up With People" movement, sing together only once a year—at the State Fair. They are members of smaller groups around the state.

Tribal Chieftain James Jackson said the Quinaults decided to bar non-Indians from the popular beach in order to stop excessive littering and defacing scenery.

Gorton expressed concern about the problems that led the tribe to close the beach.

"My family and I have personally observed the thoughtless littering and defacing of rocks by tourists. It is most unfortunate that one of our state's most beautiful natural areas should be subjected to such abuse," he said.

"I appreciate that the Quinault Tribe makes a good-faith claim of ownership of the beach, and is acting in accordance with that claim. However, as the state's legal officer, I do not agree that the Quinaults have an unchallengeable claim to exclusive control of the beaches."

The tribesmen claim the beach rights by virtue of a treaty signed with the United States before Washington became a state. The strip is the western edge of the Quinault Reservation.

Gorton said an agreement to reopen the area would be of mutual benefit because the Indians profit from the tourist trade. He said he would try to arrange a meeting so he, Jackson and Gov. Dan Evans could discuss the matter.

The attorney general declined to say what the state would do except to say it would have to institute any court action.

"We would have to challenge them," he said. "They live out there."

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Daytonians apparently have at least another week without their two daily newspapers.

Contract negotiations Tuesday between management and printers broke up without progress and were recessed until Sept. 2.

Dayton's morning Journal Herald and afternoon Daily News have not been published since last Friday, when 218 members of Local 57 of the International Typographical Union walked off their jobs.

Effect Of Gas In Irish Riots May Be Probed

LONDON (AP) — The British government offered Tuesday to send a specialist to Northern Ireland to check on reports that many of those exposed to CS riot control gas during the religious rioting two weeks ago are still suffering from diarrhea, vomiting and abdominal pains. Babies particularly were reported affected.

London newspapers seized on the reports, and editorials suggested the police in Londonderry shouldn't have been authorized to use the gas because not enough was known about its effects.

It was the first time the gas had been used in the United Kingdom against rioters. Doctors in Londonderry complained that the authorities were not able to give them the composition of the gas and they were unable to treat victims of it properly.

A spokesman for the British Defense Ministry said a medical officer with experience in chemical warfare agents would go to Ulster if requested by the government there.

He said there was concern in London because the modified tear gas had been used for some 10 years and there had never been reports before of prolonged side effects. CS is used, he said, because the tears, coughing and difficult breathing it causes usually clear up 10 minutes after the victim gets fresh air.

The Northern Ireland Parliament will be recalled Wednesday to set up a court of inquiry into the violent clashes between Catholics and Protestants, the government announced.

A government statement said the tribunal will have high court powers, including the authority to compel witnesses to appear.

Britain's new Northern Ireland trouble shooter, Oliver Wright, flew from London to Belfast today to begin his term as official adviser to the Ulster government. He is a deputy undersecretary of the Foreign Office.

In Northern Ireland, meanwhile, more than 90 per cent of the Protestant special police were reported balking at British army orders to turn in their arms.

North Dakota Governor Proclaims 'Cat Week'

BISMARCK, N.D. (AP) — "We are indebted to our friend for such useful words as cat-astrophe, cat-alogue, cat-nap, cat-sup, cat-tle, cat-apult, cat-aract, cat-hedral and kitty-cornered," the governor said.

And with that in mind, North Dakota Gov. William Guy has declared Nov. 2-8 as International Cat Week in the state.

Indians' Beach Closing Move Not 'Unchangeable', Claim

OLYMPIA, Wash. (AP) — Washington State Atty. Gen. Slade Gorton says he doesn't believe the closure of 25 miles of Pacific Coast beach by the Quinault Indians is "unchallengeable."

The strip on Washington's scenic Olympic Peninsula was closed early Monday.

'Sing Out' Scheduled At State Fair Sunday

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Some 1,500 high school and college age young people from all parts of the state join voices Sunday morning in the Sing Out Ohio Valley chorus at the Ohio State Fair grandstand.

The young chorus, part of the "Sing With People" movement, singing together only once a year—at the State Fair. They are members of smaller groups around the state.

Tribal Chieftain James Jackson said the Quinaults decided to bar non-Indians from the popular beach in order to stop excessive littering and defacing scenery.

Gorton expressed concern about the problems that led the tribe to close the beach.

"My family and I have personally observed the thoughtless littering and defacing of rocks by tourists. It is most unfortunate that one of our state's most beautiful natural areas should be subjected to such abuse," he said.

"I appreciate that the Quinault Tribe makes a good-faith claim of ownership of the beach, and is acting in accordance with that claim. However, as the state's legal officer, I do not agree that the Quinaults have an unchallengeable claim to exclusive control of the beaches."

The tribesmen claim the beach rights by virtue of a treaty signed with the United States before Washington became a state. The strip is the western edge of the Quinault Reservation.

Gorton said an agreement to reopen the area would be of mutual benefit because the Indians profit from the tourist trade. He said he would try to arrange a meeting so he, Jackson and Gov. Dan Evans could discuss the matter.

Army Refuses To Accept Shoddy, Expensive Rifles

WASHINGTON (AP) — Calling the weapons poorly made, the Army has stopped accepting M16 rifles produced by a Massachusetts company involved last year in a contract award that raised the ire of Congress.

The Army says in effect that the Harrington & Richardson Co., of Worcester, Mass., has been turning out shoddy rifles but it hopes the suspension of M16 acceptances will be temporary.

In response to questions, the Army said it had rejected five lots totaling 5,000 rifles before suspending further acceptances last July 25. The company is behind in deliveries by 12,866 weapons.

"The contractor was not complying with the contractually prescribed quality assurance program," the Army said. "Some rifles failed to pass function, endurance and targeting and accuracy tests."

Furthermore, H&R's M16s failed final examinations because of such flaws as defective barrels and bolt carriers and improper lubrication, the Army said.

The Defense Contracting Administration Service has been called into the situation and with the Army is trying to help H&R straighten out the quality problem, officers said.

In Worcester, H&R president C. Edward Rowe Jr., said he would have no comment.

The Army irritated Congress last year when it picked H&R and General Motors Corp. of Ypsilanti, Mich., to become second and third producers of the rapid-firing M16 even though two other companies said they could produce the rifles more cheaply.

On the initial contracts, H&R had a ceiling price of $41.5 million and GM $56.3 million for M16 production. By contrast, Maremont Corp. of Saco, Maine, indicated a ceiling price of $36.5 million and Cadillac Gage offered $36.8 million.

Neither Maremont's nor Cadillac's estimates were considered in the bidding because the Army doubted they could produce M16s fast enough.

Schoenwaldt said the public would be barred from the taking of the testimony but that the text of the session would be presented within 10 days at the Cologne trial as public record evidence.

He said several people who are believed to have been in charge of the camp at Sachsenhausen are being tried for first-degree murder. Evidence gathering trips outside of Germany have been routine in the prosecution of former Nazis, he added.

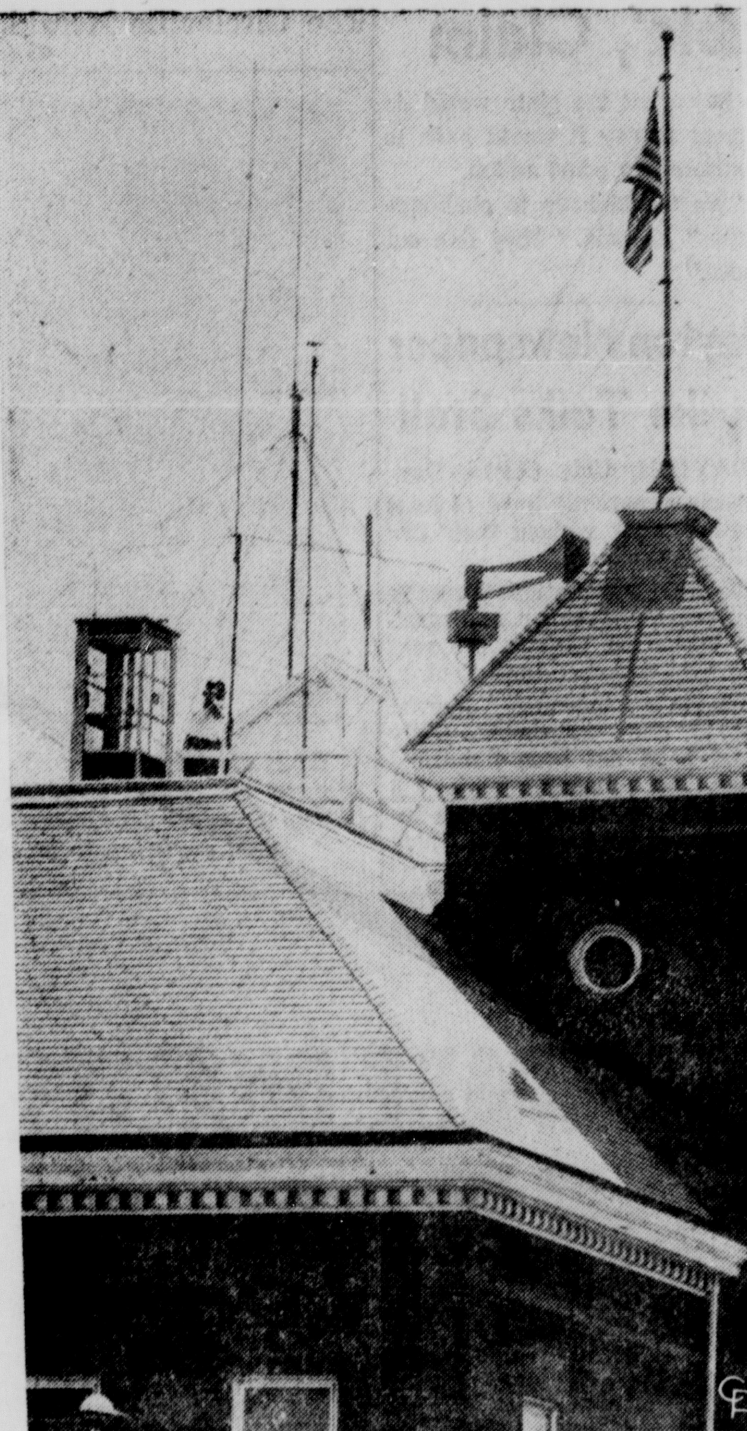

DECA Club Slates Picnic At Gold Cliff

The Circleville DECA II Club members will sponsor a party for all Circleville Distributive Education students and graduates at Gold Cliff Park Saturday.

Students, alumni, as well as the students newly enrolled in DE and their guests may go swimming anytime from 1 p.m. to 8 p.m. A carry-in picnic will be enjoyed by all at 6 p.m. Everyone is reminded to bring a covered dish and table service.

After the picnic the DECA Alumni will hold a short meeting with Bill O'Dell president; DECA II with Ethel Strawser; and DECA I members will have a get acquainted session with their coordinators, Mrs. Mary Alice Greenwood and Mr. Alan Shull.

Later those who desire to roller skate may do so. It is hoped that all Distributive Education students will be present for the picnic, swimming and skating party and business meeting before school opens.

TV Cameras Fight Crime

Cleveland Uses Closed Circuit

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — A $50,000 closed circuit television system is now being used by Cleveland police to catch criminals in the act.

Police have four closed circuit television cameras that can take closeup pictures of criminals two miles away. Police sitting in an unidentified, inconspicuous vehicle watch monitors and can radio to detectives in an unmarked car for arrests.

The equipment was purchased with a $62,000 federal grant for crime control. The remainder of the money went for training 11 men and operating costs.

The system, in operation since early July, became public knowledge Tuesday in Municipal Court when two brothers went before Judge Edward F. Feighan on misdemeanor charges of stealing parts from cars.

One brother pleaded innocent. "We know exactly where you were," Judge Feighan told him. "We know because police have a video tape of you stealing the parts—and you were wearing the shirt you have on now." The man changed his plea to guilty.

Swaziland To Set Up Youth Services

Dayton Man To Testify In Nazi Trial

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Testimony from a Dayton man is to be taken here Thursday for evidence in the mass murder trial in West Germany of World War II Nazi concentration camp administrators.

A delegation from the Criminal High Court of Cologne is in Cleveland to hear the testimony of the Ohioan, a former inmate of the camp at Sachsenhausen.

Federal Republic of Germany Cleveland Consul Peter Schoenwaldt said the name of the witness would not be released by the consulate.

Schoenwaldt said the public would be barred from the taking of the testimony but that the text of the session would be presented within 10 days at the Cologne trial as public record evidence.

He said several people who are believed to have been in charge of the camp at Sachsenhausen are being tried for first-degree murder. Evidence gathering trips outside of Germany have been routine in the prosecution of former Nazis, he added.

Scotland, Trading On 'Liquid Assets', Is Changing

By GODFREY ANDERSON
Associated Press Writer
EDINBURGH, Scotland (AP) — A net average of 45,000 Scots go south every year, supporting Dr. Samuel Johnson's saying that "Scotland has many fine prospects, but the finest prospect a Scotsman ever sees is the high road that leads him to England."

For the five million or so who stay at home, the annual outflow is not an unmixed blessing. It helps check unemployment, though at five per cent this still runs at double the rate for England.

This is a country in transition. More Scots are now employed in the electronics industry than in coal mining. Shipbuilding and marine engineering may be in decline, but America investment is opening new prospects in consumer goods and automotive machinery.

The country's nationalists are wakening from their tartan dream to find that self-rule is not yet just around the corner. After a triumphal surge which gave them their first—and only—member of Parliament 18 months ago, they got a cold shower from the local elections of last May. Now, if not dead, they're held in check.

Meanwhile, the nation continues to trade on its two liquid assets—Scotch whisky and Loch Ness, the latter because it may or may not have a monster.

The Scotch Whisky Association reckons overseas consumption of Scotch goes up about 10 per cent each year.

Its export brings in $422 million annually.

But sales at home are flagging. It costs too much. The excise duty on Scotch for home consumption has been raised five times in five years. A bottle now costs about $6, and 85 per cent of that is tax.

There's no tax on Nessie, the Loch Ness monster. Whether this timorous beastie really exists or not, report of her being sighted have a handy way of turning up in August just when the Highlands tourist season is at its height. And that never hurts business.

Elegant Edinburgh is ablaze with tartan souvenirs for American tourists. The city wears her age and occasional decrepitude with grace.

Here the visitors look out from the battlements of Edinburgh Castle atop its rock, trail a guide through the Palace of Holyroodhouse, and admire the classic Georgian terraces of the 18th century "new town." Also they learn a great deal about Mary Queen of Scots.

Women are wooed with skin food from Scotch seaweed and a range of perfumes, made in the Hebrides, from Plaid (soft, warm and tweedy) to Dark Glen (semisweet, sophisticated).

makes a specialty of do-it-yourself kilts in any clan tartan.

A dying industry is Gretna Green. That's the village just over the border from England where runaway couples had quick weddings over the blacksmith's anvil before irate parents could catch up with them.

The attraction is that anyone in Scotland can marry at 16. In England anyone under 18 needs parental approval or a magistrate's order to wed. But marriages at the two Gretna forges were stopped by the authorities in 1940 and eloping couples have since learned that a big city like Glasgow is a far more discreet place to search out a minister or registrar.

Up in the Highlands people don't easily forget the past. Amidst those timeless mountains a century can sometimes seem like yesterday.

In the 1692 massacre of Glen Coe the Campbells ambushed the Macdonalds and slew them. Today at th Clachaig Inn at the top of the Glen the notice on the reception desk reads: "No Campbells."

The Highlands are losing population faster than the rest of Scotland.

Only 275,000 of Scotland's five millions live in the Highlands, which make up one-sixth of the total land area of Britain. The mountains are rugged, the winters bitter cold.

The Highlands and Islands Development Board, a government-financed agency, does what it can to stem the population leak.

Its biggest current project is an $88.8-million smelter being built for British Aluminium near the one-time naval base of Invergordon on Cromarty Firth. It will be in operation by 1971, employing 500 local men for a start, more later.

Judy Garland's Debts $1 Million

LONDON (AP) — Judy Garland's husband says she died a million dollars in debt, including half a million owed to the U.S. Internal Revenue Service.

"Too many sharks in the business used her as a pawn to their own ends," said Mickey Deans, the singer's fifth husband.

Deans said the condition of the estate was "why I was able to laugh at the people who said I married her for her money. I don't expect anything except the bills."

Ohio Workers Cleared $200 More In 1968

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The average Ohio wage earner cleared $200 more in 1968 than during the previous year, the state Department of Development said Tuesday.

Observing that Ohioans' disposable personal income — total wages after taxes — jumped $2.4 billion to about $31.5 billion in 1968, up 8.1 per cent over 1967, the department also reported these statistics:

—Ohio, with 5.3 per cent of the U.S. population, accounts for 4.4 per cent of the national income.

—Cleveland has the state's largest concentration of personal wealth with personal income in excess of $6.2 billion. The average Cleveland family had a 1968 income of $11,400.

—The average Ohio household earned $9,759 in 1968, and one in every four Ohio households had incomes of $10,000 or more.

—Geauga County led all others with an average per household income of $11,413. These seven counties also had average family incomes of more than $10,000: Cuyahoga, $11,389; Franklin, $10,357; Greene, $10,664; Hamilton, $10,106; Lake, $11,199; Montgomery, $10,056 and Summit $10,158.

—Total disposable income in Cincinnati was about $4.1 billion, while for Columbus it was estimated at $2.8 billion, Dayton $2.7 billion, Akron $2.1 billion and Toledo $2 billion.

Forgotten GI Gets Call To Duty In Vietnam

FORT ORD, Calif. (AP) — Pfc. Richard G. Beaty, the Army's "forgotten soldier," says he has been notified he will leave for Vietnam Aug. 30. He has about 10 months of active duty remaining.

The 22-year-old father of three was sent home on a 30-day leave in November 1967 and told to await further orders. He waited — for 15 months.

When his separation date came in February 1969, he asked for his discharge.

But the Army ruled he must serve an additional year of active duty. On July 25, a U.S. District Court judge ruled against Beaty's appeal.

Faces Murder Charge

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A second-degree murder charge has been filed against Dino Politis, 23, of Columbus in connection with the shooting death Tuesday of Phillip J. McFall, 26.

Politis surrendered to police several hours after McFall, a barber, died in Mount Carmel Hospital.

that high-pitched, back-country voice, was innocently protesting.

The pair, abetted by a young New York actress named Karen Morrow, was rehearsing a sketch for the new "Jim Nabors Show." It could have been a rehearsal for the dear, departed "Gomer Pyle—USMC" which over the past five seasons made a top-Nielsen TV star of Nabors, and that was no coincidence.

The difference, when the sketch was put on tape two days later, was that both Sutton and Nabors were in civilian clothes instead of uniforms and were playing their new parts as brothers-in-law. The weekly sketch is one important way by which Gomer Pyle is being converted into Jim Nabors, singing, dancing variety host, while—hopefully—carrying along that legion of Gomer fans.

During the rest of each show, Nabors will permit other facets of his performing repertory to show.

The network, CBS, would have been happy to continue as long as there was life in the simple, innocent comedy of Gomer and his fearsome nemesis, Sgt. Carter. But Nabors wanted a change of pace and, unlike most TV stars, was determined to abandon Gomer when he was still ahead.

The new show, like most of the new and returning variety hours, will be a mixture of music, chorus dancing, comedy sketches and guest stars. Nabors will periodically uncurl his rich, deep voice in solos, work in the comedy sketches and introduce the guest talent.

The run-through, held in a big CBS rehearsal hall, was watched closely by an audience of 50 or more—not one of them a casual onlooker and all working on or in the series.

Sutton, a Broadway dramatic actor who has been Nabors' foil mopped his brow and looked relieved after the rehearsal.

"Frank has never done anything like this," Nabors explained. "But we thought it would be good for the show if he came along over with us. We didn't want to push, but he thought it over and decided to do it. Now he's singing a little, dancing a little and doing fine."

Actually, the transformation of simple-minded Gomer Pyle into tall, well-dressed Jim Nabors has been in progress for several reasons. He has appeared out of comedy character in his own special variety hours several times and been a guest star on a lot of other shows.

Gomer has given Jim a handsome hilltop home in the San Fernando Valley which most often is shared by visiting members of his family from Sylacauga, Ala., a Rolls Royce, swimming pool, walls full of good art and a healthy bank account.

The question, which only can be answered in the coming months, is whether it is Jim or Gomer that the public really loves. On the answer hangs a lot of money, effort and the stuff that makes ulcers.

HEW Backs Away On School Aid Cuts

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Department of Health, Education and Welfare has revised its procedures for cutting off federal school aid, according to government sources.

The move, expected to blunt administrative assaults on segregated southern school systems, would in effect require more evidence that discrimination exists before federal aid to specific programs could be cut.

The department's past practice was to stop all aid if it found proof of faculty or student segregation. The contention was there could be no federally-funded program in a segregated environment.

A federal appeals court questioned the HEW approach early this month, ruling the department must demonstrate discrimination in programs, not just over-all pupil and faculty segregation.

The first indication of the department's shift came in a little-noticed brief filed by the HEW general counsel's office in a discrimination action against the Raleigh, N.C., schools.

The brief asked the hearing examiner to make his findings in light of the appeals court decision.

HEW Secretary Robert H. Finch has yet to take a public position on the court decision.

But qualified sources say Finch has made the basic decision to shift focus from system-wide segregation to program-by-program discrimination.

His liberal advisers are urging a broad definition of "program," such as elementary, adult and vocational, sources say.

Conservative voices in the department advocate a narrower definition that would isolate each classroom activity.

Finch has yet to pick sides in the definition dispute, the sources say.

Also unsettled, they add, is whether to appeal the adverse decision to the Supreme Court.

It is understood the revised procedures will go into effect whether an appeal is made or not. They would serve as a safeguard if the high court, after months and possibly years of deliberation, rules against the government.

Finch must also decide whether the 121 fund terminations now in effect will be revised in light of the new procedures. Sources say such a review would probably result in a restoration of some aid money to the affected school districts.

The department's authority to cut off funds is contained in Title VI of the 1964 Civil Rights Act. It prohibits federal aid to discriminatory activities.

Atomic Energy To Power Flights In Space, Hearts

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atomic energy may play such diverse roles in the future as power for planetary grand tours and an artificial heart, Congress has been told.

The idea of implanting a tiny nuclear engine in the body to power an artificial heart is hypothetical, but worth looking into since heart disease kills some 750,000 Americans a year, says the director of the Atomic Energy Commission's isotopes development section.

E. Eugene Fowler estimates such heart research would take about four years and $5.5 million.

The commission's director of space nuclear systems, Milton Klein, in arguing for funding of the nuclear research on project Nerva, said atomic engines will be a must for deep space flight.

The testimony of both men before House appropriations subcommittees in May was released Tuesday.

The urgency of finding a practical power supply for an artificial heart, said Fowler, was

Rusk's Car Stopped

On Wisconsin Campus

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — A car used by former Secretary of State Dean Rusk was stopped as he left the University of Wisconsin Student Union after a speech to a convention of bankers Tuesday night.

About 50 persons who objected to Rusk's policies when he was in office surrounded the car as it left a parking lot. It was hit by half a dozen stones and a large stick.

demonstrated last year in Dr. Denton Cooley's effort to keep a patient alive in Houston, Tex.

The artificial heart Cooley used needed a power supply system the size of an office desk. Possibly, Fowler said, a nuclear engine weighing a few pounds could substitute, being implanted in the body.

As for space travel, Klein said, "We are moving into needs for very long life systems." A trip to Jupiter takes two years. A grand tour in the late 1970's when all the planets are in a favorable alignment would take seven to eleven years.

Klein said a desk-size Nerva atomic engine would produce as much power as Hoover Dam. Nerva would speed travel and make rescue of the vehicles possible. In comparison, the total weight of a Saturn booster is 6 million pounds, 5 million of which is chemical propellant.

As for space versus domestic priorities, Klein said, "The real long-term solutions to the problems of poverty, which are real... is to increase our ability to produce and do things better."

"The space program serves as the cutting edge of technology," Klein said.

Fiddleheads first sprouted some 300 million years ago. The leaves of some early species grew three feet long. In the Carboniferous age, 250 million years ago, ferns became enormous — 100 feet tall with diameters of several feet. These giant ferns helped form the earth's coal deposits.

demonstrated last year in Dr. Denton Cooley's effort to keep a patient alive in Houston, Tex.

The artificial heart Cooley used needed a power supply system the size of an office desk. Possibly, Fowler said, a nuclear engine weighing a few pounds could substitute, being implanted in the body.

As for space travel, Klein said, "We are moving into needs for very long life systems." A trip to Jupiter takes two years. A grand tour in the late 1970's when all the planets are in a favorable alignment would take seven to eleven years.

Klein said a desk-size Nerva atomic engine would produce as much power as Hoover Dam. Nerva would speed travel and make rescue of the vehicles possible. In comparison, the total weight of a Saturn booster is 6 million pounds, 5 million of which is chemical propellant.

As for space versus domestic priorities, Klein said, "The real long-term solutions to the problems of poverty, which are real... is to increase our ability to produce and do things better."

"The space program serves as the cutting edge of technology," Klein said.

Fiddleheads first sprouted some 300 million years ago. The leaves of some early species grew three feet long. In the Carboniferous age, 250 million years ago, ferns became enormous — 100 feet tall with diameters of several feet. These giant ferns helped form the earth's coal deposits.

Local Man Back From Tour Of Eastern Europe

Charles Will, 144 West Mound St. returned Saturday from a six week educational tour of Eastern Europe and the Soviet Union.

Will, along with nine other adults, acted as advisers for the 44 high school juniors and seniors that took the trip through Austria, Hungary, Poland, Russia, Czechoslovakia, East and West Germany, Romania, and France.

The local man, a college English teacher at Upper Arlington High School, said that the biggest event of the trip was watching the Moon landing. He and his contingent viewed the blast-off while in Vienna. They watched the moon broadcasts from a hotel room in Budapest and the splashdown in Krakov, Poland.

Will commented that the news coverage of the Apollo project was sporadic in the Soviet sectors and the mail delivery left much to be desired.

HE noticed that many more western goods were available in Russia now than there were when he was there two years ago. In the Kremlin area of Moscow, the oppressive silence of the hordes of people affected him the most.

In Poland the group noticed the general poverty of the people. "The peasants still work their fields with scythes, reminiscent of Europe years ago," he said.

The people were generally friendly to the group with the only overt hostility was experienced in France. Many individuals in Russia wanted to talk to the tourists about the United States and some expressed dissatisfaction with the USSR.

According to Will, one of the most unique experiences of the trip happened in Czechoslovakia. The group arrived in the "country of conflict" Aug. 18. All petroleum sources were cut off so few buses and taxis were running. The Czechs expected to be annexed by the Russians the next day and the tension of the people was felt by the tourists when they were accepted with smiles but with little else.

"All 44 teenagers on the trip showed intense patriotism and responsibility. All of us returned to the United States with a greater respect and love for our country," Will said.

Surgeon Offers New Concept In Treatment Of Shock Cases

NEW YORK (AP)—An Akron, Ohio, surgeon has reported research suggesting that traditional methods of treating shock are based on a misunderstanding of what happens in the human body in shock.

Dr. James L. Berk of the Akron General Hospital says he has put his theory to work on a few patients who failed to respond to conventional treatment and has reduced the expected mortality rate.

Biochemical studies of these patients, he adds, confirms that physical changes predicted by his theory actually did take place.

The changes concern dilation and constriction of certain tissues and organs in the body.

Dr. Berk reported his research at a recent meeting sponsored by the American College of Physicians at New York University Medical School and St. Vincent's Hospital.

A specialist in the field described the work as "a new concept in the treatment of shock and the causation of shock." He said it was "exciting," although still experimental.

Current theory, Dr. Berk says, holds that in response to shock there is constriction in most of the vascular system's minute blood vessel.

This constriction does not apply to the heart and brain, so it had been assumed this was a bodily reaction to see to it that the brain got the oxygen needed to live despite the reduced blood pressure and volume that marks the state of shock.

But investigation has shown that the constriction of the minute blood vessels eventually leads to critical damage to the body, leading to irreversible shock and death.

To treat this, current theory holds that a drug be administered to fight the vascular constriction. The drug are intended to dilate the vascular system.

But Dr. Berk says there has been no success with this method.

"This made me suspicious," Dr. Berk says. "If vasoconstriction is doing the damage, it (the condition) ought to get better by correcting it. It didn't."

Dr. Berk indicates that there is a dilation, not constriction, of the lung and stomach organs such as the liver. In the lung, for example, fluid then accumulates.

Physicians had assumed there was constriction throughout the body, he says, because constriction was visible in the skin.

In both experimental animals and the few humans studied so far, Dr. Berk says, the pathological changes measured support his theory that there is really dilation.

Dr. Berk says the best treatment available so far is a drug called propranolol, which blocks the dilating effect in the lungs and intestinal organs.

But the drug also weakens the heart, and Dr. Berk says a new drug is needed, one that blocks the undesirable dilation but does not affect the heart.

While more work needs to be done to confirm his theory, Dr.

Berk says, it has opened a new area of investigation for medical scientists.

Hopkins Airport Faces Critical Water Situation

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — A Federal Aviation Administration official says a ban on lawn sprinkling on Cleveland's West Side may be necessary to preserve safe operation of Cleveland Hopkins International Airport.

Clay Hedges, FAA Cleveland area manager, said Monday night that low water pressure at the airport the last two days had caused repeated breakdowns in air conditioning needed to keep sensitive flight control equipment functioning.

He said there should be a ban on lawn sprinkling until water pressure is back to normal.

However, Ben S. Stefanski II, city utilities director, said pumps and valves were being adjusted so pressure could be built up in that area. He said the pressure should be built up by late evening.

Bids Opened On 32 Ohio Highway Jobs

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The State Highway Department has opened bids on 32 projects including multi-million dollar road improvement jobs throughout the state.

W. L. Johnson Construction Co. and Associates of Columbus submitted the apparent low bid of $3.62 million for the 2.5-mile section of Columbus' Outerbelt, I-270. The state estimate was $3.98 million.

The Great Lakes Construction Co., Cleveland, submitted the apparent low bid of $5.53 million for the relocation of 1.5 miles of Ohio 16 and 13 to relieve crowded traffic conditions in downtown Newark. The state estimate was $6.26 million.

Relocation of Ohio 795 in Wood County received the apparent low bid of $3.56 million from the Mosser Construction Co., Inc., and S. E. Johnson, Fremont. The project carried a state estimate of $3.69 million.

The Harry Miller Excavating Co. of Suffield submitted the apparent low bid of $2.25 million for reconstruction of a 2.8-mile section of Abbe Road between Ohio 57 and 254 in Elyria. The state estimate was $2.28 million.

CHAMPAIGN COUNTY—Resurfacing, widening 4.89 miles of Ohio 29; apparent low bid of $985,640 by D. E. Goodchild Inc., Circleville; state estimate $1,222,000.

CLERMONT — Improvement of 0.427 miles of Ohio 133; apparent low bid of $307,939 by Clinton Asphalt Paving Co., Wilmington; state estimate $337,500.

CUYAHOGA — Paving 0.47 miles of County Road 18; M.F. Velotta & Sons, Inc., of Solon, entered apparent low bid of $438,999; state estimate $464,000.

HARRISON & JEFFERSON — Paving and constructing one bridge on U.S. 22; apparent low bid by Harry Miller Excavating Co. of Suffield of $659,003; state estimate $810,800.

MORROW — Grading, paving and resurfacing and two bridges on Ohio 95; apparent low bid of $420,239 by Mosser Construction Co., Fremont; state estimate $429,000.

SANDUSKY — Paving in part and widening and construction of one bridge on Ohio 19 and Oak Harbor Road; apparent low bid Peerless Construction Co., Fremont, $2,269,768; state estimate $2,343,000.

ASHTABULA — Grading, paving 10.89 miles of Ohio 11; apparent low bid Horvitz Co., Cleveland, $5,195,034; state estimate $7,020,000.

STARK — Improving U.S. 62 and one bridge; apparent low bid Den Cookson, Inc., New Philadelphia, $491,864; state estimate $663,000.

TRUMBULL — Improving and constructing five bridges on Ohio 5; apparent low bid A.P. O'Horo Co., Youngstown, $3,109,934; state estimate $3,385,000.

The moon's dry, dark areas once were believed to be seas. Long before the telescope was invented natural philosophers, the scientists of the day, gave them their watery names.

DINNER TIME PET—Albert, a 7-foot alligator, visits the home of Walter Grubbs in Tomoka Oaks, Fla., twice a day to be fed. The 'gator lives in a slip at the rear of the house and calls for his meals by a series of grunts. It was a 2-foot baby when the Grubbs family moved in nine years ago.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

Follow Your Doctor's Advice

DEAR ABBY: I am soon to become the proud mother of an adopted infant, and here is my problem: I want more than anything in the world to breast feed this child. I have heard that there are hormone shots which will manufacture milk in women whether they are pregnant or not. My hairdresser says she knows for a fact that many of the women who belong to the LaLeche society do this to keep themselves in milk all the time.

When I told my doctor about my great desire to nurse my adopted baby he said I should forget it, and he would not give me any hormone shots for this purpose. He also tried to convince me that bottle babies are just as healthy as breast-fed babies, which shows you how much HE knows.

Abby, I still have my heart set on nursing my adopted baby. Can you put me in touch with a doctor in the Cleveland area who will give me those hormone SHOTS?

WANTS TO NURSE BABY
DEAR WANTS: Don't rely on medical advice from your hairdresser. She is all wet. I advise you to listen to your own doctor, and don't fool around with hormone shots or you're apt to wind up with no milk and a mustache.

DEAR ABBY: Before Bob and I were married (six months ago) he went thru his wallet and made quite a ceremony of throwing all the girls' telephone numbers away. He did this voluntarily.

This is the second marriage for both of us, although we're both in our middle twenties. I'll be honest with you, Abby, I snooped through his wallet about a month ago to see if he had any new numbers, and I found THREE! I was hurt but didn't say anything.

Last night I went snooping again and I found FIVE more numbers, all written in his own handwriting.

I am so hurt. I was under the impression that he was satisfied with me. I hate to believe that he has strayed so soon after our marriage. He's a good man, and he has been wonderful to me and my children. He has to go out of town on business about twice a month on overnight trips, and this is what worries me.

What should I do? If I bring it up it might drive a wedge between us. I trusted my first husband and he broke my heart. This morning Bob left early, and when I got up, I found a note on his pillow which read, "I love you, Baby."

HURT
DEAR HURT: Judge Bob by the way he treats you, and QUIT SNOOPING! Maybe he just likes to collect telephone numbers.

DEAR ABBY: I just received an invitation to a bridal shower. It is being given by the cousins of the groom who happens to be a very nice fellow and a good friend of mine.

The prospective bride is still married to another man and she will not be officially divorced until after the date of the bridal shower.

As I understand it, the bride's divorce will be final on Sept. 1, and her wedding will take place on Sept. 2. All this split-second timing has really got me wondering. How should I treat an invitation of this kind?

WONDERING
DEAR WONDERING: Since the groom is a very nice fellow and a good friend of yours, go to the shower and don't split hairs over the split-second timing.

CONFIDENTIAL TO HONEY:

Ruling Upsets Plans To Tax Outside Buying

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Atty. Gen. Paul Brown issued a ruling Tuesday that counties imposing a half per cent "piggy-back" sales tax cannot collect from residents who do their buying in other counties.

He gave the opinion for Lake County Prosecutor Fred Skok. Franklin County Commissioner Clerk Richard Borrow predicted it will throw out plans by Franklin County commissioners to impose a half per cent use tax on such out-of-county purchases.

It also will intensify efforts by Franklin County auto dealers to defeat the proposal to levy the half per cent sales tax in the county.

3 Counties Plan College District

PIQUA, Ohio (AP)—Commissioners of Miami, Darke and Shelby County have approved a resolution aimed at establishing a tri-county community college taxing district.

It allows the state board of regents to conduct a community college feasibility study to learn how big a school will be needed as well as its location. State and federal funds would finance three quarters of the project. Currently Wright State University has an academic center in Piqua.

'Black Lung' Bill Signed By Governor

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Gov. James A. Rhodes Tuesday signed the controversial "black lung" bill and 25 other pieces of legislation.

OHIO CASH GRAIN

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio Dept. of Agri. cash grain prices: No. 2 red wheat mostly one cent lower 1.12-1.14, mostly 1.12-1.13; No. 2 yellow corn mostly two cents lower 1.16-1.25, mostly 1.16-1.19; No. 2 oats unchanged to one cent lower .55-.60, mostly .57-.58; soybeans mostly one cent lower 2.09-2.56, mostly 2.09-2.13.

The so-called black lung bill makes Ohio's 5,000 coal miners eligible for workmen's compensation if they get cardiovascular and pulmonary diseases caused by prolonged breathing of coal dust.

Rhodes also signed a bill to provide $15 million for low income families to send their children to day care centers while they work or seek work. A companion bill to license the centers was also signed.

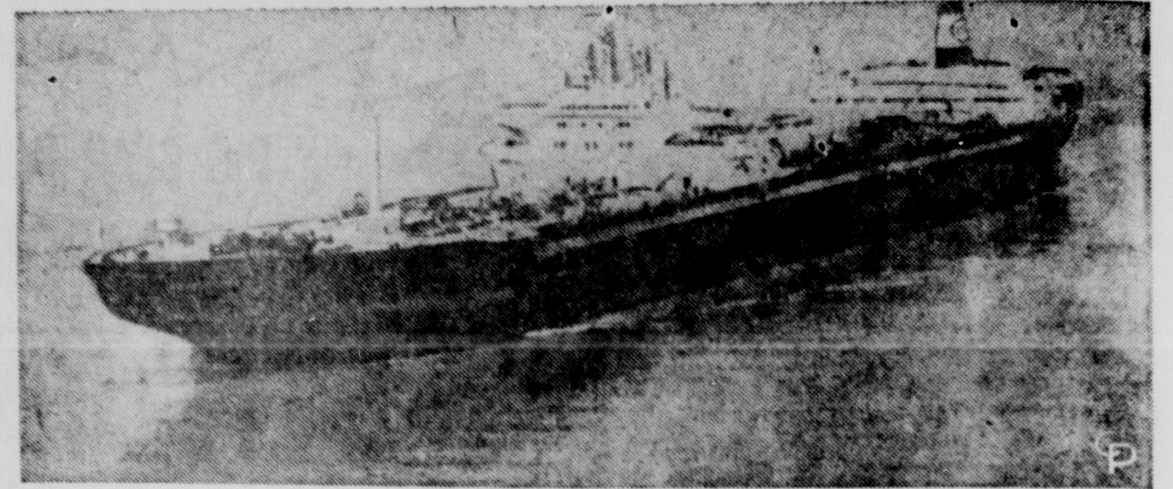

The governor also signed a bill increasing benefits to widows and orphans of policemen and firemen. The bill also boosts police and firemen retirement pay 10 per cent for those over 65 years of age.

The black lung bill, which traveled a stormy course through the Legislature, permits coal miners who met certain medical requirements to draw compensation as long as they stay out of the pits. However, they may do other work around the mines.

There are an estimated 5,000 coal miners in Ohio.

DINNER TIME PET—Albert, a 7-foot alligator, visits the home of Walter Grubbs in Tomoka Oaks, Fla., twice a day to be fed. The 'gator lives in a slip at the rear of the house and calls for his meals by a series of grunts. It was a 2-foot baby when the Grubbs family moved in nine years ago.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

Follow Your Doctor's Advice

DEAR ABBY: I am soon to become the proud mother of an adopted infant, and here is my problem: I want more than anything in the world to breast feed this child. I have heard that there are hormone shots which will manufacture milk in women whether they are pregnant or not. My hairdresser says she knows for a fact that many of the women who belong to the LaLeche society do this to keep themselves in milk all the time.

When I told my doctor about my great desire to nurse my adopted baby he said I should forget it, and he would not give me any hormone shots for this purpose. He also tried to convince me that bottle babies are just as healthy as breast-fed babies, which shows you how much HE knows.

Abby, I still have my heart set on nursing my adopted baby. Can you put me in touch with a doctor in the Cleveland area who will give me those hormone SHOTS?

WANTS TO NURSE BABY
DEAR WANTS: Don't rely on medical advice from your hairdresser. She is all wet. I advise you to listen to your own doctor, and don't fool around with hormone shots or you're apt to wind up with no milk and a mustache.

DEAR ABBY: Before Bob and I were married (six months ago) he went thru his wallet and made quite a ceremony of throwing all the girls' telephone numbers away. He did this voluntarily.

This is the second marriage for both of us, although we're both in our middle twenties. I'll be honest with you, Abby, I snooped through his wallet about a month ago to see if he had any new numbers, and I found THREE! I was hurt but didn't say anything.

Last night I went snooping again and I found FIVE more numbers, all written in his own handwriting.

I am so hurt. I was under the impression that he was satisfied with me. I hate to believe that he has strayed so soon after our marriage. He's a good man, and he has been wonderful to me and my children. He has to go out of town on business about twice a month on overnight trips, and this is what worries me.

What should I do? If I bring it up it might drive a wedge between us. I trusted my first husband and he broke my heart. This morning Bob left early, and when I got up, I found a note on his pillow which read, "I love you, Baby."

HURT
DEAR HURT: Judge Bob by the way he treats you, and QUIT SNOOPING! Maybe he just likes to collect telephone numbers.

DEAR ABBY: I just received an invitation to a bridal shower. It is being given by the cousins of the groom who happens to be a very nice fellow and a good friend of mine.

The prospective bride is still married to another man and she will not be officially divorced until after the date of the bridal shower.

As I understand it, the bride's divorce will be final on Sept. 1, and her wedding will take place on Sept. 2. All this split-second timing has really got me wondering. How should I treat an invitation of this kind?

WONDERING
DEAR WONDERING: Since the groom is a very nice fellow and a good friend of yours, go to the shower and don't split hairs over the split-second timing.

U.S. Amateur Tourney Opens

By RALPH BERNSTEIN
Associated Press Sports Writer
PITTSBURGH (AP) — The contrast is startling. First, you have Bruce Fleisher, 20, and as many years of amateur golf ahead of him as he chooses. Then, there is Billy Hyndman, still shooting for his golf moon at 53.

Both started around Oakmont Country Club's 6,892-yard course today in the 69th annual U.S. Amateur Golf Championship. Fleisher is the defending champion. He won it in his first try. Hyndman was making his 17th bid since his first in 1949.

These young and old were part of a field of 150 seeking the title in the four-day, 72-hole tournament. The top 60 scorers and ties will qualify for the final 36 holes. Uncle Sam's victorious Walker Cup team was here in body, along with its victim of last week, the Walker Cup team of Great Britain.

Fleisher expressed confidence in his ability to do something only six others have accomplished—win back-to-back national amateur titles. Harvie Ward last did it in 1955-56. Although he said he was confident, the usually flamboyant Fleisher didn't sound convincing.

Hyndman, an insurance executive from Huntingdon Valley, Pa., who has two sons older than most of the field here, isn't bothered by the generation gap. "I feel great physically and I never hit the ball any better or longer than I do now," he said, before practicing on the well-trapped Oakmont course.

Hyndman has come close to winning a big title three times and he realizes time is running out on him. In 1955, when this tourney was match play competition, he lost to Harvie Ward in the final, 5 up. Deane Beaman beat him in the 1959 British Amateur final. This year, he lost to Britain's Mike Bonalack in the final of the British Amateur.

In addition to Fleisher and Hyndman, both members of the Walker Cup team which won in Milwaukee last week, the field included Marvin (Vinnie) Giles, runnerup in this tournament the last two years. Also, Dick Sidrow, Allen Miller, Dr. Ed Updegraff, at 47 another "old gaffer," Steve Melnyk, Joe Inman Jr., Lanny Wadkins and John Bohmann. They're all Walker Cup members.

There are also such outstanding amateurs as former champions Gary Cowan, Charley Cox and Bill Campbell. The British Walker Cup team was led by Bonalack, his country's amateur king, as England's top amateurs tried to take the title overseas for the first time.

Tight End Finds Himself Linebacker With Bengals

WILMINGTON (AP) — Because he likes to "mix it," and because he's getting bigger, the Cincinnati Bengals' Bill Peterson has found himself as a first string linebacker instead of second string tight end.

And, the 24-year-old graduate of San Jose State University has beaten out one of his high school idols, Frank Buncom, an all pro as late as 1967 as a San Diego Charger.

Peterson said he was a Charger fan and used to go to see Buncom while Peterson was playing for San Jose Apaches in the Continental League.

"I look at Frank, and he's so completely natural," Peterson said. "It comes so easy to him and I just wonder how I do it. He's an old pro, no doubt about it. He's helped me a lot too. There's no animosity between us at all."

Peterson was on the taxi

squad in 1968. He was activated by Coach Paul Brown and saw some action. He caught three passes playing in the last nine games.

"My size was getting bigger as the season went on," said Peterson who had been put on a weight program. By the end of the season Brown asked him if he'd like to be a linebacker.

"I like to hit. I guess that showed up because I did well on the special teams, kickoffs and punt returns."

SPORTS Highlights

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP) — The world's richest tennis tournament, the $137,000 U.S. Championship, broke with tradition and opened a 12-day stand with the name players shunted from the spotlight.

Top-seeded Rod Laver of Australia, gunning for the first Grand Slam of the Open era, faced Luis Garcia of Mexico today on an obscure side court at the venerable West Side Tennis Club.

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — Cuba, cheered by the anti-American crowd of 16,000, came from behind with two runs in the eighth inning to beat the United States 2-1 and win the World Amateur Baseball Championship Tuesday night.

Lee May Leads Reds Win; Merritt Notches 15th Win

CHICAGO (AP) — Lee May is stroking the ball again and the Cincinnati Reds are winning. For the second straight game, the power-hitting first baseman, who had been in a slump, enjoyed a good day at the plate and the Reds won by one run over the sagging Chicago Cubs.

The Reds claimed a 9-8 victory Monday and won 8-7 Tuesday after blowing a 7-1 lead. They had dropped four straight contests before Monday and 13 of their last 17 games. They now are one half game out of first in the National League's West.

May, who registered three which proved to be the difference in the game.

"I just hope it's here to stay," May said, referring to his stroke. "I have been hitting off and on."

"I think I'm overcoming it," he continued regarding the slump.

Jim Merritt, who went 8-2-3 innings, picked up his 15th victory against five losses although he was tagged for seven runs—five earned and four on homers by Ernie Banks, Glenn Beckert and Don Young.

Acquired in a trade that sent Leo Cardenas to Minnesota after the 1968 season, Merritt suffered from a lack of hitting support. Things have been different at Cincinnati.

"I was really happy when I heard about the trade," Merritt said. "I knew this club would hit."

Cleveland Eliminated From Pennant

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Rookie Vernon Geisbert won his first major league game and Aurelio Rodriguez drove in three runs Tuesday night as the Cleveland Indians, 8-4, and officially eliminated the Tribe from the American League pennant race.

The Indians, who have occupied the league's Eastern Division cellar all season, now have no chance of overtaking the high-flying Baltimore Orioles although there are still 33 games on the Cleveland schedule.

The Angels pounced on Steve Hargan for four runs in the first inning and never relinquished the lead as they won their third straight game.

Hargan had retired two batters when Jim Fregosi started the fireworks with a single and then consecutive singles by Jay Johnstone and Rick Reichardt produced one run. Bill Voss walked to fill the bases and set the stage for a two-run single by Rodriguez, Joe Azcue, a former Indian, singled home a fourth run.

Geisbert, called up from Hawaii of the Pacific Coast League last week, relieved starter Steve Kealey in the third inning and held the Indians to three hits and two runs until the seventh, when he gave way to Ken Tatum.

One of Africa's smallest and most primitive tribes, the El Molo live along the bleak shores of remote Lake Rudolf in northern Kenya, the National Geographic Society says.

CHAMPION — Steve Helwage (left), dropped Bud Hritz on the 29th hole of the 36-hole championship match at the Pickaway Country Club to take championship flight honors. Helwage was one-under-par at that point in the match. Tom McGuire beat Greg Heiskell for the A Flight crown. Bud Rehner downed Speeder Davis in B Flight, Chuck Orr dumped Ben Brian in C Flight and Jim Stallings cracked Don Hill in D Flight.

Lee May Leads Reds Win; Merritt Notches 15th Win

CHICAGO (AP) — Lee May is stroking the ball again and the Cincinnati Reds are winning. For the second straight game, the power-hitting first baseman, who had been in a slump, enjoyed a good day at the plate and the Reds won by one run over the sagging Chicago Cubs.

The Reds claimed a 9-8 victory Monday and won 8-7 Tuesday after blowing a 7-1 lead. They had dropped four straight contests before Monday and 13 of their last 17 games. They now are one half game out of first in the National League's West.

May, who registered three single in the four-run first inning, lashed a run - scoring single in the four-run first inning Tuesday and cracked a one-run double in the ninth inning which proved to be the difference in the game.

"I just hope it's here to stay," May said, referring to his stroke. "I have been hitting off and on."

"I think I'm overcoming it," he continued regarding the slump.

Jim Merritt, who went 8 2-3 innings, picked up his 15th victory against five losses although he was tagged for seven runs—five earned and four on homers by Ernie Banks, Glenn Beckert and Don Young.

Acquired in a trade that sent Leo Cardenas to Minnesota after the 1968 season, Merritt suffered from a lack of hitting support. Things have been different at Cincinnati.

"I was really happy when I heard about the trade," Merritt said. "I knew this club would hit."

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Jo Ann Gay came all the way from last place for a photo-finish win in the featured race at Scioto Downs Tuesday night. The 5-year-old mare went off at 10-1 odds and returned $22.20, $10.60 and $4.60.

Toro Wilson, finishing second by a head, paid $7.60 and $4.50, while Success June was worth $2.80 for show.

The 5-8 daily double combination of Tony Tune and O.C.'s Special paid $25.40. The 1-5 quinella returned $22.80.

Attendance was 4,576; handle $178,172.

Cleveland Eliminated From Pennant

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Rookie Vernon Geisbert won his first major league game and Aurelio Rodriguez drove in three runs Tuesday night as the California Angels beat the Cleveland Indians, 8-4, and officially eliminated the Tribe from the American League pennant race.

The Indians, who have occupied the league's Eastern Division cellar all season, now have no chance of overtaking the high-flying Baltimore Orioles although there are still 33 games on the Cleveland schedule.

Tight End Finds Himself Linebacker With Bengals

WILMINGTON (AP) — Because he likes to "mix it," and because he's getting bigger, the Cincinnati Bengals' Bill Peterson has found himself as a first string linebacker instead of second string tight end.

And, the 24-year-old graduate of San Jose State University has beaten out one of his high school idols, Frank Buncom, an all pro as late as 1967 as a San Diego Charger.

Peterson said he was a Charger fan and used to go to see Buncom while Peterson was playing for San Jose Apaches in the Continental League.

"I look at Frank, and he's so completely natural," Peterson said. "It comes so easy to him and I just wonder how I do it. He's an old pro, no doubt about it. He's helped me a lot too. There's no animosity between us at all."

Peterson was on the taxi

squad in 1968. He was activated by Coach Paul Brown and saw some action. He caught three passes playing in the last nine games.

"My size was getting bigger as the season went on," said Peterson who had been put on a weight program. By the end of the season Brown asked him if he'd like to be a linebacker.

"I like to hit. I guess that showed up because I did well on the special teams, kickoffs and punt returns."

SPORTS Highlights

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP) — The world's richest tennis tournament, the $137,000 U.S. Championship, broke with tradition and opened a 12-day stay with the name players shunted from the spotlight.

Top-seeded Rod Laver of Australia, gunning for the first Grand Slam of the Open era, faced Luis Garcia of Mexico today on an obscure side court at the venerable West Side Tennis Club.

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — Cuba, cheered by the anti-American crowd of 16,000, came from behind with two runs in the eighth inning to beat the United States 2-1 and win the World Amateur Baseball Championship Tuesday night.

Newport Coach Goes To Court

NEWPORT, Ky. (AP) — Attorneys for ousted Newport High School basketball coach Stan Arnen said they will appeal to a higher court to enjoin the school board from firing Arnen.

An injunction was denied Tuesday by Campbell Circuit Court Judge Fred Warren because the school board said Arnen was to be retained as a teacher.

Arnen, who has coached at Newport for 21 years, was fired by Superintendent James Gabbard, hired July 1, 1969, was backed in the decision by the school board.

Grid, Band Introductions Scheduled For Friday Night

RED AND BLACK UNIT — The Circleville Junior High School has added a new dimension to the Junior High Band — the 10-member Red and Black Unit. From the left are Vicki Johnson, Debbie Guseman, Nancy Rose, Connie Flowers, Lynne Easter, LuAnn McCoy, Paula Payne, Cathy Pearce, Connie Sowers and Amy Grover. The unit will perform Friday at the Band Show.

The Circleville Band Boosters will present their annual introduction to the Circleville grid season Friday night at the Circleville High School.

Fans will view the Senior and Junior High School bands, meet the 1969 Circleville Tigers and coaches, and see the Tiger gridders in action.

As an added attraction, the Senior High band will be wearing their new uniforms and the Junior High band will present their newly-formed Red and Black unit.

The band show is in preparation for the 1969 football campaign, launched by the Tigers, Sept. 5 in a home tilt with Grove City.

As in the past, Tiger home games start at 8 p.m. on the High School field. Gates open at 6:30 p.m.

Xenia's Bob Wynn Leads Ohio Open Golf Tournament

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—Bob Wynn of Xenia held a one-stroke lead going into today's final two rounds of the Ohio Open Golf Tournament.

Wynn shot a par-71 on the Byrnyck course Tuesday for a 36-hole total of 146. Cliff Cook of Toledo and Joe Kollarczyk of Fremont were tied for second with 147s.

Toledo's Herman Lang, who captured low senior golfer honors with a 150 at the halfway point, was in fourth place, followed by amateur Walter Stahl of Cleveland and pros Bruce Denno of Toledo and Darrel Knicey of Wadsworth, with 151s.

get his wish, but the way his Chicago Cubs keep throwing away games and the New York Mets keep picking them up, Leo might get it after all.

Just last weekend, Durocher was saying how curious he was to find out how his players would react to pennant pressure. But the way the Cubs had been winning, it didn't appear as if there would be much pressure to react to.

However, all that has suddenly changed and after the Cubs lost again to Cincinnati 8-7 Tuesday afternoon, and the Mets swept a two-night doubleheader from San Diego 8-4 and 3-0, the pressure is on.

The results left the Mets only three games behind Chicago in the National League East and only one in the important loss column, quite a drop from the 9½-game lead the Cubs had only 14 days ago.

St. Louis and Pittsburgh missed golden opportunities to add still more pressure when the Cardinals split a two-nighter against Houston, winning 1-0 and then losing 4-2, and the Pirates lost to Atlanta 6-4.

The third-place Cardinals thus picked up only a half game and stand 7½ back, while the Pi-

The West Division needs no added pressure with one game

teams after all won.

San Francisco clung to its half game, three percentage point lead over Cincinnati by clubbing Philadelphia 13-4, and Atlanta remained two points behind the Reds. Los Angeles is one game and seven points behind after bouncing Montreal 6-0. Fifth-place Houston is three games back.

San Francisco won its sixth game in a row in the afternoon behind Willie McCovey's 40th homer—a grand slam—a run-scoring single and a sacrifice fly and Bobby Bonds five RBI on two homers as Gaylord Perry, 16-10, breezed.

Claude Osteen, 17-11, gave seven hits and walked five, but pitched out of numerous jams as Los Angeles ended a four-game spin and stretched Montreal's losing streak to six. Willie Davis of the Dodgers extended his hitting streak to 23 games, longest in the majors.

With one week remaining in the league, team 9 is still paying the way with 267 points. Team 6 is second with 242 points, team 2 third with 235 points and team 7 fourth with 231.

The week of Sept. 9, the top four teams in the league will face each other for the championship in the league.

Gas Rate Hike Announced

Residents of Circleville and two other Pickaway County communities will begin paying more for natural gas on Sept. 1 because of the Education Tax bill passed by the Ohio Legislature this month. It was announced today by Columbia Gas of Ohio Inc.

A part of the tax bill increases the state excise tax on Ohio public utilities from three to four per cent, and will result in an increase of about $2,430,000 annually in Ohio taxes paid by the gas company.

The increase is being passed on to customers through provisions of tax cost clauses in the communities' contracts with the gas company.

An increase of one cent per thousand cubic feet of gas used will apply in Circleville and Ashville.

An increase of one and one-fourth cents per thousand cubic feet will apply in South Bloomfield.

Slain Girl's Assailant 'Abnormal', Officer Says

ASHLAND, Ohio (AP)—Wood County Sheriff's Deputy Marvin Gerkens returns to the witness stand for cross-examination today in the murder trial of Mark Hodges.

Wood County coroner Dr. Roger A. Peatee told the Ashland County Common Pleas Court jury Tuesday that the assailant or assailants of slain Karen Kern were "abnormal mentally" and sexually.

Hodges, 28, of Beaverdam, is charged with first-degree murder in the October, 1967, slaying of Miss Kern of Sylvania, the niece of Ohio AFL-CIO President Frank King.

Dr. Peatee said there were no visible signs that Miss Kern had been sexually molested, but that tests indicated a sexual act had been performed.

He testified that Miss Kern had been shot seven times but that only the first bullet, in the woman's chest, was fatal. He said that six other bullets and stab wounds in Miss Kern's body came after death because they did not cause bleeding.

He said he and a pathologist disagreed on the number of times the woman was shot. He said that an x-ray examination of the body showed what he considered a fragment of a bullet, but that the pathologist ruled it to be an eighth bullet.

Dr. Peatee said x-rays showed five bullets still in the body and three of those were removed. He said that he did not observe much blood in the ditch where the woman's body was found and that the slaying scene was unknown.

Gerkens and Deputy Cloyce McGiffin testified on their investigation into the slaying. They described finding the young woman's clothing lying in a cornfield adjacent to a ditch where the body was found.

McGiffin said two knives and a box of cartridges were taken from Hodges' house trailer in a search conducted with a search warrant, and that they obtained in Lima a photostatic copy of a purchase order from Hodges for a pistol.

Karl Hanneman, a Bowling

Green mortician, said he took blood samples for the Bureau of Criminal Investigation while embalming Miss Kern's body. Ambulance operator James Hill testified on his removal of her body from the ditch where it was discovered off Thompson Road in Wood County.

The trial is being held here on a change of venue from Bowling Green. Nineteen of 40 scheduled prosecution witnesses have testified.

Firemen Host Labor Day Festivities

Kingston firemen will commence preparations Sunday for the Labor Day opening of the annual Firemen's Labor Day Outing which begins Monday, Sept. 1.

Scheduled to run through Sat. Sept. 6, the festivities will be held in the village park. A daily fish fry will be offered, plus a midway of carnival rides and concessions for visitors. Free entertainment will be offered nightly.

The weeks' outing will be climaxed Saturday night with a parade featuring fire apparatus and beauty queens. A square dance, to be held in the park following the parade, will bring the annual activities to a close.

Kingston Fire Department and the Village Community Park benefit from proceeds of the Labor Day Outing.

Power Builds New Lines

Darwin Kindler, General Manager of South Central Power Company, today announced that the locally-owned power company was constructing six miles of new 69 V transmission line, on Route 31 between State Routes 33, east to State Route 37 in Fairfield County.

The construction was necessary to update equipment to coincide with the new 7500 KVA distribution substation being built at Route 37 and Coonpath Road, according to Kindler.

Kindler estimated the project would be completed by September 20.

Surprisingly, Georgia, not California, was the scene of America's first major gold rush. Some 10,000 prospectors invaded the mountains of north Georgia in 1828, founded a string of rip-roaring frontier towns and mined so much gold that by 1838 the Government had opened a branch mint there.

ASHLAND, Ohio (AP)—Wood County Sheriff's Deputy Marvin Gerkens returns to the witness stand for cross-examination today in the murder trial of Mark Hodges.

Wood County coroner Dr. Roger A. Peatee told the Ashland County Common Pleas Court jury Tuesday that the assailant or assailants of slain Karen Kern were "abnormal mentally" and sexually.

Hodges, 28, of Beaverdam, is charged with first-degree murder in the October, 1967, slaying of Miss Kern of Sylvania, the niece of Ohio AFL-CIO President Frank King.

Dr. Peatee said there were no visible signs that Miss Kern had been sexually molested, but that tests indicated a sexual act had been performed.

He testified that Miss Kern had been shot seven times but that only the first bullet, in the woman's chest, was fatal. He said that six other bullets and stab wounds in Miss Kern's body came after death because they did not cause bleeding.

He said he and a pathologist disagreed on the number of times the woman was shot. He said that an x-ray examination of the body showed what he considered a fragment of a bullet, but that the pathologist ruled it to be an eighth bullet.

Dr. Peatee said x-rays showed five bullets still in the body and three of those were removed. He said that he did not observe much blood in the ditch where the woman's body was found and that the slaying scene was unknown.

Gerkens and Deputy Cloyce McGiffin testified on their investigation into the slaying. They described finding the young woman's clothing lying in a cornfield adjacent to a ditch where the body was found.

McGiffin said two knives and a box of cartridges were taken from Hodges' house trailer in a search conducted with a search warrant, and that they obtained in Lima a photostatic copy of a purchase order from Hodges for a pistol.

Karl Hanneman, a Bowling

Green mortician, said he took blood samples for the Bureau of Criminal Investigation while embalming Miss Kern's body. Ambulance operator James Hill testified on his removal of her body from the ditch where it was discovered off Thompson Road in Wood County.

The trial is being held here on a change of venue from Bowling Green. Nineteen of 40 scheduled prosecution witnesses have testified.

Firemen Host Labor Day Festivities

Kingston firemen will commence preparations Sunday for the Labor Day opening of the annual Firemen's Labor Day Outing which begins Monday, Sept. 1.

Scheduled to run through Sat. Sept. 6, the festivities will be held in the village park. A daily fish fry will be offered, plus a midway of carnival rides and concessions for visitors. Free entertainment will be offered nightly.

The weeks' outing will be climaxed Saturday night with a parade featuring fire apparatus and beauty queens. A square dance, to be held in the park following the parade, will bring the annual activities to a close.

Kingston Fire Department and the Village Community Park benefit from proceeds of the Labor Day Outing.

Power Builds New Lines

Darwin Kindler, General Manager of South Central Power Company, today announced that the locally-owned power company was constructing six miles of new 69 V transmission line, on Route 31 between State Routes 33, east to State Route 37 in Fairfield County.

The construction was necessary to update equipment to coincide with the new 7500 KVA distribution substation being built at Route 37 and Coonpath Road, according to Kindler.

Total estimated cost of the new transmission line, being sub-contracted by the Wolfrey Construction Company, Columbus, Ohio is $170,000.

Kindler estimated the project would be completed by September 20.

Surprisingly, Georgia, not California, was the scene of America's first major gold rush. Some 10,000 prospectors invaded the mountains of north Georgia in 1828, founded a string of rip-roaring frontier towns and mined so much gold that by 1838 the Government had opened a branch mint there.
